Go Back to Work, F. D. R. Tells Miners

DEADLINE OF 48 HOURS SET BY PRESIDENT

Government Will Act To Protect Nation Unless Order Is Obeyed

ACTS AS COMMANDER

Telegrams Sent To Lewis And Other Leaders Of Union Groups

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—President Roosevelt today directed striking anthracite coal mine workers to return to their jobs immediately and declared if this order is not followed out within 48 hours "your government will take the necessary steps to protect" interests of the nation in war time.

The President, who issued the order in his capacity of commander in chief in war time, sent identical telegrams to John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers union and to 32 other local presidents of miners unions and leaders.

Anticipation of action by the chief executive had already spurred sentiment among the recalcitrant miners for a return to the pits, some 5,000 straggling back to their jobs.

WLB Frustrated

The War Labor Board, after the 21-day strike continued in open defiance of four WLB orders dating from January 14, yesterday voted unanimously to request that the White House take action, use of troops if necessary, to end the walkout.

Following a conference between Economic Director Byrnes, Presidential Secretary Marvin McIntyre, WLB Chairman Davis and six other board members, it was announced late last night that the White House had the case "under advisement."

Meanwhile, labor leaders expressed fear that the strike, which resulted in the loss of an estimated 1,000,000 tons of coal to the fuel-starved nation, would provide congress an opening wedge to regulate labor unions by federal law.

Congressmen Aroused

Various members of the house and the senate, branding the "wildcat" walkout as treason, are determined to press for an immediate inactivation of laws to outlaw strikes and control alleged union "racketeering."

Final settlement of causes of the strike, longest and most bitter of World War II, was still up to the union or the government.

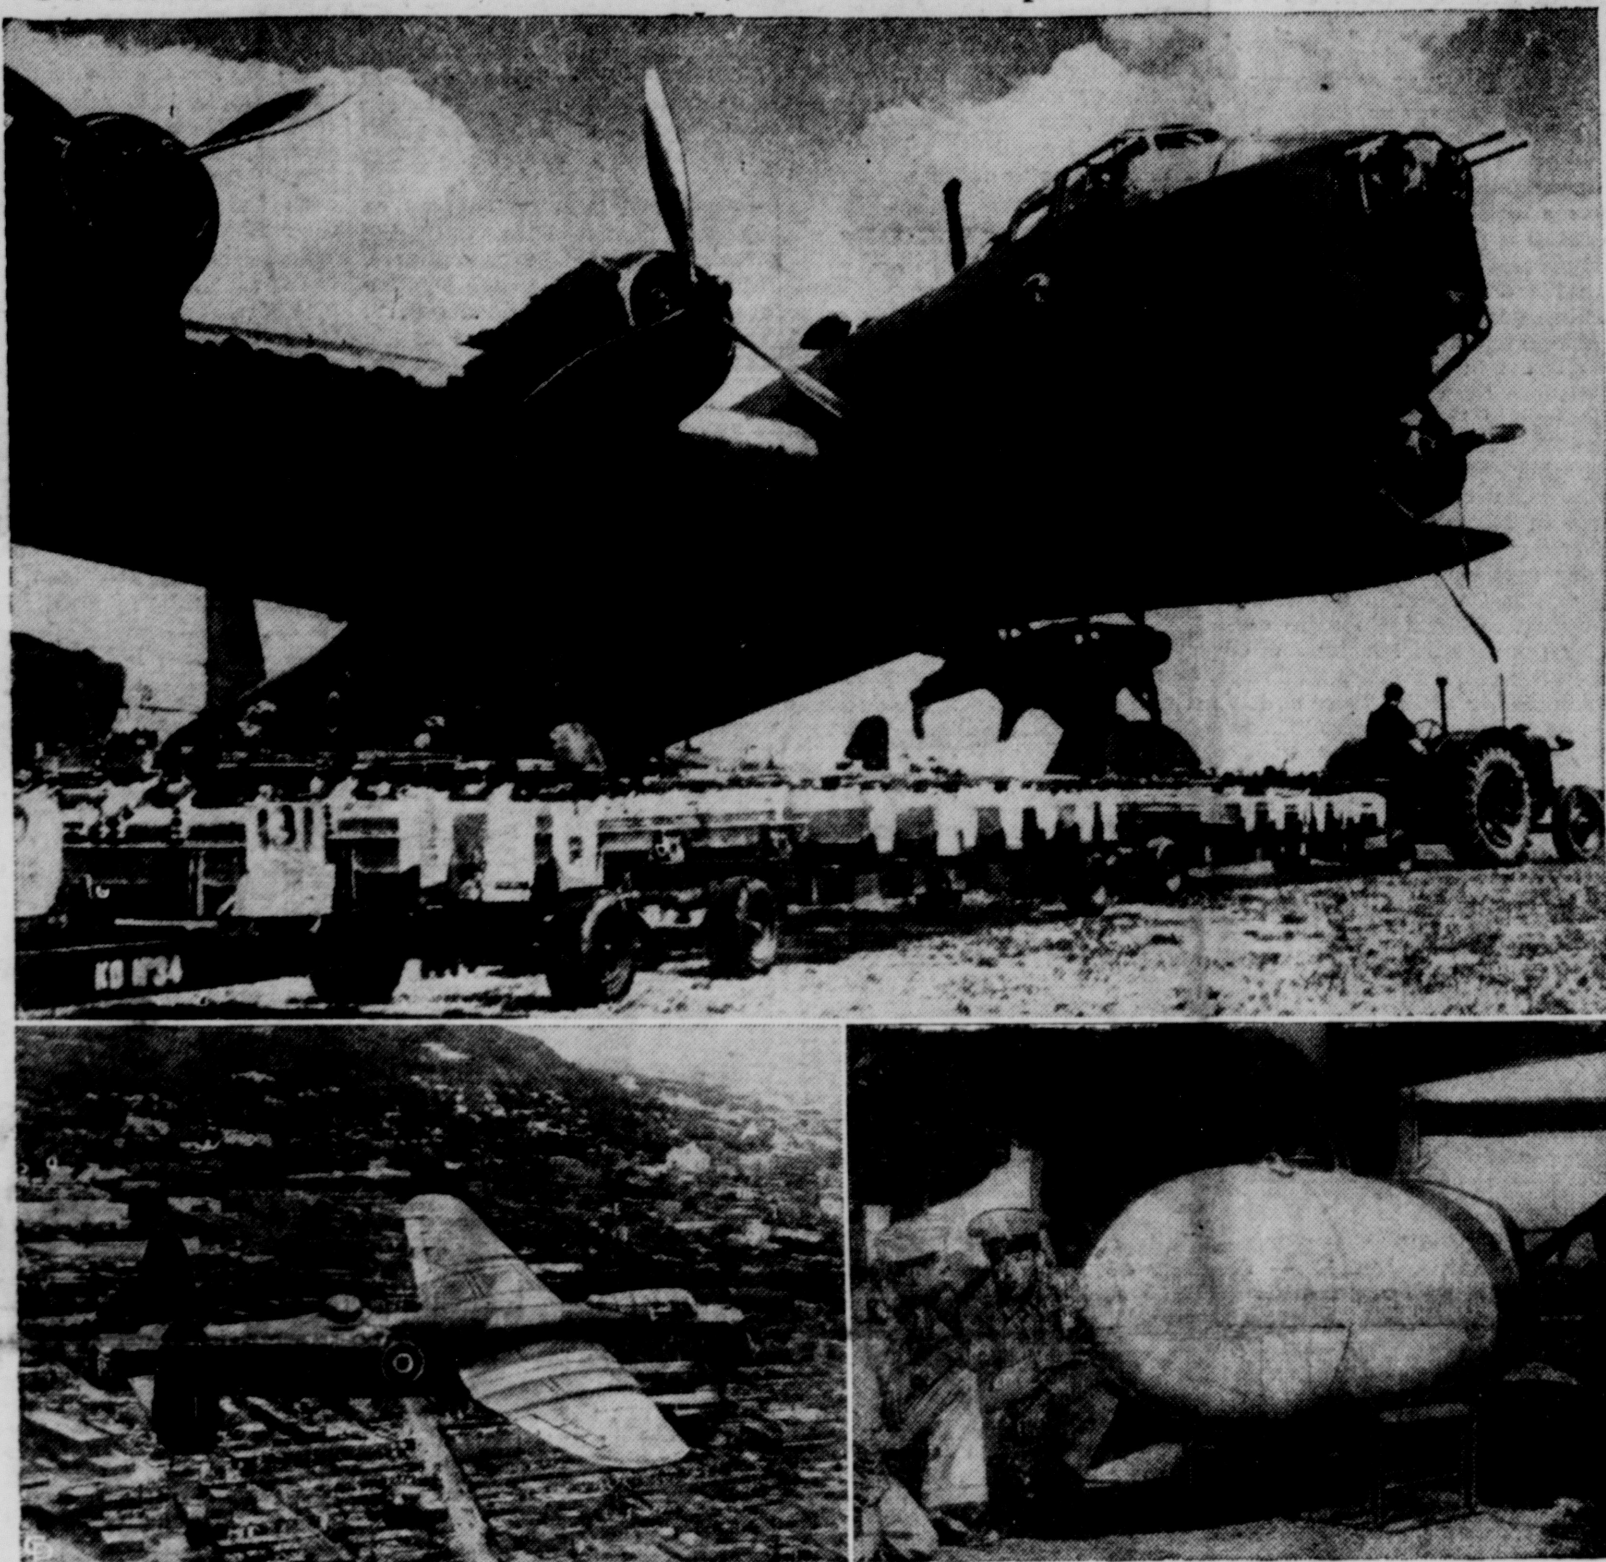

Although strongly denouncing the walkout as a serious blow to the nation at war, the WLB (Continued on Page Two)

BROWN STARTS THANKLESS JOB

No Radical Changes Planned Now Says Watch-Dog Of American Prices

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—Ex-Senator Prentiss M. Brown, of Michigan, today plunged into the "thankless" task of being the nation's watch-dog on prices with the pledge that there will be no immediate radical changes in the price and rationing policies of OPA.

"There has been talk of a plan of mine to reorganize the whole setup," he said. "That's not so. At least there'll be no changes of that sort until I've had time to study the need for it and then there will be no changes unless it is needed."

Brown said that he expects to be sworn in the middle or latter part of the week. Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy, close friend of Brown, is expected to administer the oath of office to the 53-year-old native of St. Ignace, Mich., as director of the office of price administration.

The new OPA chief conferred today with his predecessor—tough, outspoken Leon Henderson, whose proud boast is that he has held the price line, despite the political pressure which finally contributed to his resignation. Henderson is expected to leave soon for an extended vacation in South America.

Brown declared, soon after his speedy confirmation by the senate, that his every effort also would be bent toward "keeping prices in control." Informed officials predicted that he will be under terrific pressure from the farm lobbies and other groups to puncture the ceilings.

After going over his job with Henderson, the former Michigan senator plans to try and isolate himself "for 10 days or two weeks to get the feel of things."

Every Available Yank Plane in South Pacific Driving Against Japs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—Every available American plane based in the South Pacific today is being pressed into service in the latest aerial offensive against Japanese bases and shipping to forestall another enemy thrust against Guadalcanal and possibly to pave the way for new U. S. moves in that area.

According to battle reports from the Solomons, even slow flying navy patrol bombers have joined speedy army Flying Fortress and marauder bombers in assaults on Jap positions from one end of the archipelago to the other.

Resumption of the Japanese bombing raids on Guadalcanal and presence of an increasing number of enemy destroyers in the Solomons waters indicated that the Japs may be preparing for a sea borne thrust against American positions.

Although American forces have been working on the premise that the Japs would return and are ready for them, it is entirely possible that U. S. forces may strike offensively themselves and thus disrupt Japanese plans.

The Japs have had two months since their November defeat to map their next move against the Americans, and navy men believe that the enemy high command may order another counter drive momentarily.

FARLEY THINKS 1943 WILL SEE END OF HITLER

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 19—James A. Farley, former postmaster general predicted today that Germany will be knocked out of the war this year.

"Germany will be driven out of the war before the end of 1943 and the allies will then go ahead with the elimination of Japan," Farley declared.

Peace terms must be based on a foundation of "equality for the peoples of all nations," said Farley, but he added that we must get the war over before we begin to talk about the post-war world.

COURT RESUMES FLYNN HEARING

Woman Juror Dismissed And Is Replaced By Young Mother Of Two Children

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19—The Errol Flynn trial returned to full swing today after a protracted delay, ended when Superior Judge Leslie E. Still excused one juror from the panel hearing the attack charges of two teen-age girls against the screen star, and ordered one of the two alternate jurors to occupy the vacant seat.

The change was made by stipulation of opposing counsel after nearly a full day of discussion in Judge Still's chambers. Deputy District Attorney John Hopkins simultaneously withdrew a motion by the state calling for a mistrial.

As the trial spun full-speed ahead again, the prosecution tentatively had a personal appearance scheduled on the witness stand late today for Peggy Lee Satterlee, 17-year-old showgirl.

She was expected to make her formal debut at the trial after two officers testify, completing the state's evidence on the first count involving blonde Betty Hansen, 17.

The excused juror was Miss Elaine Forbes, slender secretary, accused in affidavits given by three members of the venire of prejudice.

Judge Still told Miss Forbes, however, that the qualifications of the jurors were not gone into during the lengthy discussions, and that her excusal was not in any way to be considered a reflection upon her.

Into her chair as number five juror was called Mrs. Alice F. Chalfant, brunette young housewife and mother of two children. The jury thus retained its strong feminine complexion of nine women and three men.

Charges contained in one of the affidavits that another woman juror, attractive Mrs. Lorene Boehm, had expressed herself as being "for Flynn in a big way" were not mentioned by the judge, and she continued on the jury.

MAJOR MOVE ANTICIPATED BY UNITED NATIONS

Concentration Of Forces In All Out Attack On Japan Urged

STRATEGY CONSIDERED

Secrecy Fogs Plans Made At Conference Of U. S. And Great Britain

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—Reports were current in Washington today that important developments in connection with the Allied strategy are impending as a result of discussions which have taken place between the United States and Great Britain.

These discussions are believed to have touched upon the question of determining the next major move in Allied strategy.

They are also believed to have considered methods of combatting the Nazi submarine menace.

In connection with future grand strategy, the view prevails in some Allied diplomatic quarters in Washington that the United Nations should consider the question of concentrating their forces in an all-out attack on Japan before Germany is completely knocked out of the war.

Strategy Change Favored

This suggestion for a possible change in Allied grand strategy is understood to have been prompted by the fear that when Germany has finally been defeated, the peoples of the Allied countries in Europe, including the British and Russians, may be so war weary that there will be little enthusiasm for a continuation of the war in the Pacific.

In such an event, the danger is seen that there might be popular support for a compromise peace with Japan, or that America might be left holding the bag in the Far East.

Those who are advocating consideration of this question do not believe the time has arrived for any immediate change in the present strategy of concentrating on the defeat of Germany as the first major objective of the United Nations.

Must Crush Hitler

They believe the United Nations should continue concentrating on Germany until Hitler's military might has been crippled beyond repair.

When Germany's power to launch major offensive campaigns in this war has been definitely crushed, and the German armies are pushed back to their own soil, then it is felt the United Nations should consider turning their main attention to Japan.

In this manner, it is thought it might be possible to secure Russia's aid in defeating Japan.

BRUTAL MURDER OF MOTHER OF SIX CONFESSED

DETROIT, Jan. 19—Melvin Childress, 26-year-old ex-convict, today faced first degree murder charges in the attack-slashing of Mrs. Sybil McGrath, 26-year-old mother of six children.

Subjected to 86 hours of almost continuous questioning, Childress advanced "full and complete" confession to slaying the young mother in her small West Side Detroit apartment where her nude body with a silk nightdress bound about the neck was found early Friday. A coroner's report had established death as caused by "asphyxiation due to strangulation" and a pathologist's report issued later held the woman had been assaulted.

Childress, apprehended soon after discovery of the body, after the victim's three-year-old daughter asserted he had visited the apartment some two hours earlier, admitted injuring the woman in a struggle attending the assault, Wayne county Prosecutor William E. Dowling revealed.

Marcantonio Appointment Threatens Split With Administration

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—With southerners in open revolt, House Democrats prepared to meet in secret caucus late today on the administration-sponsored appointment of Rep. Vito Marcantonio (A-L) N. Y., to the important House Judiciary Committee.

The fight, so bitter that it threatens the administration's slender margin of control in the house, was brought into the open when the Democratic Committee on Committees made the appointment by a 9 to 6 vote over the protest of members who accused Marcantonio of being an avowed Communist sympathizer.

The opponents of Marcantonio, highly-organized and intent on upsetting the committee's action, will offer a candidate of their own, either Rep. Sullivan of Nevada or Rep. Feighan of Ohio, and will seek a secret ballot in the hope of attacking wavering Democrats to their cause.

In addition, the opposition has chosen five prominent congressmen to take the floor and attack the Marcantonio appointment. Those selected are Reps. Hatton Summers, Texas, chairman of the Judiciary Committee; Martin Dies, Texas, chairman of the Dies Committee; Sam Hobbs, Alabama, a ranking Judiciary Committee member; Joe Starnes, Alabama, a Dies Committee member; and Malcolm Tarver, Georgia.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—Office of Price Administration agents and Chicago police investigated today the theft of 6,534 gasoline rationing books from a Chicago rationing board office. Officials estimated that the coupons have a legitimate value of approximately 1,500,000 gallons.

Serial numbers of the books were sent to gasoline stations throughout the city in the hope of tracing the thieves through the numbers. The huge theft was believed a part of an organized effort to establish a black market in gasoline.

The theft was the fourth in Chicago in the last seven weeks.

CITY SEEN AS FOCAL POINT IN MURDER PROBE

Circleville is expected to become a focal point of Franklin county's "cedar chest" murder investigation Tuesday evening when deputies seeking to unravel the shooting of Guy B. Fowler, 47, come here in an effort to connect a shotgun found in a field near the murder scene with a gun borrowed the day before Christmas by Nannie Bates Fowler, missing wife of the slain man, from her father, John Bates.

Special Investigator Frank Martin of Franklin county told Sheriff Charles Radcliff that he intended to come to Circleville to question Bates, who lives in the rear of the Winorr plant, concerning the shotgun. Martin intended to bring the shotgun found in the field along with him. If it is the gun loaned to Mrs. Fowler at least one angle of the bizarre slaying will be cleared up.

The shotgun loaned to Mrs. Fowler to "take hunting" was a single barrel 12 guage, Bates told Sheriff Radcliff. His hammer had been broken and had been brazed together again. So far Franklin county authorities have not received (Continued on Page Two)

One column rumbled along the coastal road and reached Zliten after driving through abandoned Misrata. Zliten is some 90 miles from Tripoli.

Approach Tripoli

Another force was driving along the interior road leading from Beni Uid northwest to Tripoli and was reported in contact with the enemy "towards Tarhuna" which is 45 miles from Tripoli.

Axis rear-guards, supported by tanks, attempted to slow the British advance and were reported suffering heavy losses.

The communiqué covered actions of Monday and the eighth army undoubtedly was much closer to its goal today.

Bombers of the middle east command ranged over the battle field, smashing enemy formations between Tripoli and the advanced British spearheads, again heavily bombed Tripoli and points beyond in Tunisia between the ports of Sfax and Gabes.

Other bombers raided the Italian islands of Lampedusa and Sicily in the continuing campaign to knock out the axis Mediterranean bases and slow the flow of supplies and troops to Tunisia.

Hun Bases Threatened

Important German bases on the Russian front were nearer capture as the Red army juggernaut rolled relentlessly ahead on key sectors from Leningrad to the Caucasus foothills.

Soviet columns smashing through the Ukraine from Voronezh were reported advancing rapidly as the Germans retreated, abandoning huge supplies of equipment. At one point 1,000 trucks, in good condition, fell to the Russians.

Russian columns driving westward on Rostov crashed across the Manyh river, the last natural barrier before Salsk, an important rail junction 100 miles southeast of Rostov.

German casualties mounted in the series of battles and the Communist newspaper Pravda declared that "a quarter million enemy dead rotted on the approaches to Leningrad."

Nazis Hurdled Back

While the Russians hurled the enemy back in the east, British and American bombers struck again in the west in a series of night raids on the occupied territories.

Coastal command bombers mined enemy waters, fighters on of offensive patrols attacked freight trains moving across northern France, and American Hudson bombers damaged three German supply ships in an attack on a convoy off the Dutch coast.

Although night alerts were reported in Swiss towns as radio stations went off the air, the air ministry made no announcement of raids on Germany or Italy.

A sharp increase in activity was reported in Burma where British ground forces are driving on Akyab, supply port on the Bay of Bengal. Patrol skirmishes were reported in the Chin hills area.

British units occupied a village on the Kalada river, 30 miles northeast of Rathedaung, with slight opposition.

RAF bombers raided Japanese-occupied villages in the Mayu river area, smashed at enemy shipping on the Irrawaddy and Chindwin rivers, attacked Akyab and nearby coastal points and smashed at enemy airfields near Toungoo and Meiktila.

COUNTY TO BE REPRESENTED AT FARMER SESSION

Scores of Pickaway county farm men and women are making preparations to attend the annual Farmers' week program to be held next week at Ohio State university. The program starts Tuesday and continues through Thursday with a musical entertainment to be provided the final evening by granges.

One of the favorite diversions of the Farmers' week visitors has become a war casualty. That is the quadrilles and square dances, being eliminated this year to save time during the three-day schedule of events.

Every year several hundred Pickaway county farmers attend the Farmers' week events, and F. K. Blair, county agent, said Tuesday that from all indications another large group will be present.

Governor's day on the program will be Wednesday, January 27. Governor John W. Bricker's talk at four o'clock on Ohio's part in the war will be preceded by greetings to the audience from Howard L. Bevis, university president, and from John T. Brown, director of the state department of agriculture. Dean John P. Cunningham, college of agriculture, will be chairman of the meeting.

Tuesday, will bring Dr. Frank A. Slutz, Dayton, to the campus to speak on the relations of parents and youth in war time. He will be introduced at 4 p. m. by Extension Director H. C. Ramsower. Francis Flood, New York, will reveal some of the conditions faced by British citizens in a talk at 8 p. m. Tuesday. George B. Crane, assistant extension director, is chairman of this meeting.

The Wednesday evening session will feature a movie, The University and the War, and also a presentation by students in the University Grange and the 4-H Club of their conception of the dedication of community resources to winning the war. R. B. Tom, specialist in rural sociology, will preside at this meeting.

Thursday will be Ohio farm organization day, with a speaking staff of Elmer F. Kruse, chairman, Ohio Farm War Board and the AAA; Perry L. Green, president, Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, and Joseph W. Fichter, master, Ohio State Grange. These men will present their opinions of 1943 Ohio farm production goals at 4 p. m. under the chairmanship of Dr. J. I. Falconer, university rural economics department.

MISS ELIZABETH RENICK IS DEAD; RITES THURSDAY

Miss Elizabeth F. Renick, 82, died Tuesday at noon at her home, East Union street, of complications. Miss Renick had been in failing health since she was injured by an automobile three years ago.

Born December 21, 1860, Miss Renick was a daughter of Felix W. and Helen Bennett Renick. She never married. Her only immediate survivor is a sister, Mrs. Nellie R. Smith, East Union street. There are also several nieces and nephews.

Miss Renick, a member of the Methodist church, did considerable traveling and for three years made her home with Methodist missionaries in Japan and Korea.

The funeral will be Thursday at 3 p. m. at the residence, the Rev. Neil H. Peterson officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by L. M. Mader. The body will be at the Renick home after noon Wednesday where friends may call.

Pall bearers will include George P. Foreman, Walter P. Downing, Ernest L. Tolbert, H. W. Plum, John Caldwell, Harry W. Heffner, T. W. Brown and Judge Meeker Terwilliger.

agreed to consider the demands of the miners—rescission of a new 50-cent dues assessment voted by the United Mine Workers Convention and a two-dollar a day wage increase, if normal bargaining procedures break down.

Nevertheless, John L. Lewis, UMW chief, has declared that the disputed issues can and will be settled within the procedures established by the UMW contract with the anthracite operators.

While effects of the mass walk-out, which involved some 15,000 miners, had already reached New England, Solid Fuels Coordinator Ickes warned that the full impact of crippled production was yet to come.

In previous cases of defiance of WLB orders, President Roosevelt was forced to send army or navy forces in to seize the plant in question.

However, it was pointed out that Mr. Roosevelt had ordered Montgomery Ward and Company to comply with a WLB order instead of taking more drastic action under his wartime powers.

Investigator Martin has started to study the possibility that more than one person may have been involved in the crime. An undeveloped roll of film has been found, two men appearing in several of the eight exposures on the roll. Fowler's picture was not on the roll.

"Since Fowler was a rugged fellow," Martin said, "it would have been a very difficult task for one person to have placed the body in the cedar chest." Fowler's body, the top of his head blown off by a shotgun, was found in a chest he had given his wife for Christmas.

Meanwhile, authorities pressed their hunt for Fowler's widow. She is missing from their home in north Columbus with all her clothing and personal effects. They were last seen together last Friday by Fowler's son-in-law, Wayne Morris, who said they were arguing about Fowler's plan to take a government job in Panama.

Fowler and his widow both had police court records, Franklin and Pickaway county authorities said. The slain man was paroled in December, 1939, from McNeil island, Wash., after serving 18 months for violation of the federal auto theft law. Mrs. Fowler was sent from Pickaway county juvenile court to the Girls' Industrial school at Delaware in 1932 as incorrigible. Her parole from the G. I. S. became final in 1937.

Funeral services for Fowler will be held Wednesday in Columbus with burial in Canal Winchester.

RURAL SCHOOL BOARDS CHOOSE YEAR'S LEADERS

Reports of two more rural board of education organization meetings have been submitted to Superintendent George D. McDowell. Only a few boards have failed to file their relation reports, Mr. McDowell said.

Latest submitted were Perry and Wayne, the former listing R. V. Hamman as president, Robert Buck as vice-president and Leonard Brigner and Marie McGhee as additional members. Wendell Evans, offered the clerkship for another term, has declined, so a vacancy exists there.

Wayne board elected John Peters as president, Leila McAbee as vice-president and Helen B. Counts as clerk with additional members being W. J. Barthelmas, Roy Rittinger and Sherman Campbell.

ROAD MAINTENANCE TO BE CONFERENCE SUBJECT

Maintenance of the Pickaway-Ross county line road running from Route 23 to Adelphi will be discussed Tuesday afternoon when Pickaway county commissioners and Engineer Henry T. McCrady meet with the Ross county commissioners and their engineer.

The road has been improved with cost shared, and now the question of maintenance is to be determined.

Starnes said: "If this appointment is sustained it will be a tragic blot on the Democratic party. Mr. Marcantonio's political, social, and economic views are well-known, as he has never hesitated to express them most freely. They are not my views or the views of the Democratic party."

MOTHER'S VISIT CALMS STAR IN COAST HOSPITAL

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19—A dramatic meeting with her mother in the psychopathic ward of a Los Angeles hospital resulted in former Screen Star Frances Farmer's "first quiet day in weeks," according to hospital psychiatrists today.

The meeting was arranged by Dr. George N. Thompson after Mrs. Lillian V. Farmer had flown from Seattle to comfort her actress-daughter.

Miss Farmer was wearing the hospital uniform of gray slacks and white blouse when her mother entered the ward.

"Hello, Mom," the blonde actress greeted Mrs. Farmer. "Gee, you're looking great... Say, those are smart looking shoes." They talked privately for 10 minutes.

Leaving the hospital, Mrs. Farmer told a reporter: "This is like sickness or death. It comes along and you face it, doing everything that is necessary. We want Frances to have a good rest. She has a broken heart."

The actress was divorced last Summer from Actor Lief Erickson. Later she was reported engaged to a Hollywood lawyer, who now is married to a society woman.

Following a jail sentence last week growing out of conviction of drunken driving, the actress was placed under observation. A sanity hearing will be held tomorrow before Superior Judge Dudley S. Valentine.

YOUTH INJURED IN CRASH WITH COAL CARRIER

Stewart Martin, 19, of 129 West Mill street, suffered a nose cut and bruises Tuesday at 6:45 a. m. when his northbound roadster crashed into a coal-laden truck just north of the Northridge road intersection on North Court street. He was enroute to the Fifth Service Command repair garage, West Goodale street, Columbus, where he is employed, when the accident happened.

Martin was taken to Berger hospital where he was discharged after treatment of his injuries.

Attachment proceedings were started against the truck and its coal, Martin charging that Melvin Thompson, 24, of Gallipolis RFD, its driver, had parked without providing proper lighting facilities to protect traffic.

Right front end of the Martin sport roadster, a 1931 Chevrolet, was damaged.

TWO LEAVE FOR TRAINING IN WAR SHOP WORK

Junior C. Thompson of Circleville and Charles C. Clevenger of East Ringgold left Monday for Carrollton, O., to enter the Mustang war production and training center operated by the National Youth administration.

A choice of training is offered the youths in machine shop, welding, radio, sheet metal or airplane mechanic fundamentals to prepare them for complete training at Patterson field, Fairfield.

Youths of 16 to 25 who are not ready for or eligible for the draft and who are employable are eligible for training. While in training the government furnishes room, board, medical and dental care, transportation to and from the center and $10.80 in cash each month.

Similar opportunities are offered to young women at the Mount Logan resident center near Chillicothe.

Free bus transportation is offered daily to Pickaway county youth interested in war production training in Columbus. Each youth receives $25 a month for this work.

Additional information may be obtained from Miss Catherine Weis, NYA field representative, who is in Circleville each Monday from 10:30 to noon at the U. S. employment service office in the courthouse.

MERCURY GOES TO 10 DEGREES IN SUDDEN DROP

Winter returned to Circleville and Pickaway county Tuesday, a strong wind reducing traffic, both automobile and pedestrian, to a standstill, and the temperature falling to 10 degrees above zero. Suddenness of the mercury fall was noted in the comparative readings announced by the weather bureau, the reading at 8 a. m. Tuesday by 23 degrees and at noon 13 degrees lower.

Roads became icy as rain which fell during the night froze. State highway department crews were assigned to cinder hills and curves on main roads.

Temperatures, which were dropping throughout Ohio, were reported at noon by weather officials as follows: Columbus 15; Dayton 8; Cincinnati 11; Huntsville 7; Findlay 9; Toledo 12; Cleveland 17; Akron 21; Cambridge 24.

Some schools were expected to close and one school bus in Columbus was expected to cancel its schedule because of the icy condition of grades on its route.

The state highway department reported roads in the area north and west of a line marked by Troy, Marysville, Upper Sandusky and Toledo were slippery but were being worked on by sanding crews. Route 95 was closed from Blanchville to a junction of route 89 in Wayne county. Some roads in eastern Ohio that were still wet from recent rains, would soon be icy as the cold wave reached the area.

21,497 LOST BY MARINES, COAST GUARD AND NAVY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—The total number of sailors, marines and coast guardsmen reported dead, wounded and missing from Pearl Harbor to December 31, 1942, was placed at 21,497 today when it was announced that casualties of the U. S. navy forces totaled 1,219 in the last half of December.

In its casualty list No. 20 covering personnel of the navy, marine corps and coast guard, the navy give a recapitulation of casualties from December 7, 1941 to December 31, 1942 as follows:

Navy—4,975, dead; 2,012, wounded; 9,219, missing; 16,206, total.

Marine corps—1,319, dead; 1,806, wounded; 1,962, missing; 5,087, total.

Coast guard—50, dead; 19, wounded; 135, missing; 204, total. Total—6,344, dead; 3,837, wounded; 11,316, missing; 21,497, total.

Casualties reported from December 16 to December 31, 1942 included 418 dead, 403 wounded and 398 missing.

Russia's unwillingness to join the other Allies in the Pacific war has been based on the ground that it could not spare the strength to fight Japan while it was engaged in resisting German military might in the west.

When Germany's offensive power has been broken and the menace to Russia from that quarter overcome, it is felt that the United States and Great Britain might then be in a position to ask the Soviet for direct help in the Pacific conflict.

As for the attitude of the European people, it is pointed out, for example, that many of the Allied seamen, including the Norwegians, Dutch, Greek, Yugoslavian, and even the British, have not seen their families for a long time. When Germany has been defeated, the danger is seen that these men may feel the immediate menace to their homeland is over and they may want to go home and forget about the war.

GEORGE A. GRAHAM DIES AT HOME IN LANCASTER

George A. Graham, owner and manager of the Graham Milling company in Lancaster for the last 50 years and an uncle of Mrs. Fred Pierce of near Circleville, died Sunday afternoon at his home in the Fairfield county seat.

Funeral will be Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Graham was active in numerous Lancaster civic and church affairs, having served as president of the Nursing and Welfare association, Rotary club and Sons of the Revolution. He was an elder of the Presbyterian church for 40 years.

Survivors include his widow, three brothers and a sister.

Fowler and his widow both had police court records, Franklin and Pickaway county authorities said. The slain man was paroled in December, 1939, from McNeil island, Wash., after serving 18 months for violation of the federal auto theft law. Mrs. Fowler was sent from Pickaway county juvenile court to the Girls' Industrial school at Delaware in 1932 as incorrigible. Her parole from the G. I. S. became final in 1937.

Funeral services for Fowler will be held Wednesday in Columbus with burial in Canal Winchester.

RURAL SCHOOL BOARDS CHOOSE YEAR'S LEADERS

Reports of two more rural board of education organization meetings have been submitted to Superintendent George D. McDowell. Only a few boards have failed to file their relation reports, Mr. McDowell said.

Latest submitted were Perry and Wayne, the former listing R. V. Hamman as president, Robert Buck as vice-president and Leonard Brigner and Marie McGhee as additional members. Wendell Evans, offered the clerkship for another term, has declined, so a vacancy exists there.

Wayne board elected John Peters as president, Lella McAbee as vice-president and Helen B. Counts as clerk with additional members being W. J. Barthelma, Roy Rittinger and Sherman Campbell.

ROAD MAINTENANCE TO BE CONFERENCE SUBJECT

Maintenance of the Pickaway-Ross county line road running from Route 23 to Adelphi will be discussed Tuesday afternoon when Pickaway county commissioners and Engineer Henry T. McCrady meet with the Ross county commissioners and their engineer.

The road has been improved with cost shared, and now the question of maintenance is to be determined.

Sure, the government wants a big cut out of what you made last year. Hand it over and collect from Hitler and Hirohito.

It was recalled that prior to the great November 13-15 sea-air battle, reconnaissance and bombing planes played an important role in the U. S. victory by keeping track of Jap ship concentrations and blasting enemy vessels and bases.

MOTHER'S VISIT CALMS STAR IN COAST HOSPITAL

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19—A dramatic meeting with her mother in the psychopathic ward of a Los Angeles hospital resulted in forming Screen Star Frances Farmer's "first quiet day in weeks," according to hospital psychiatrists today. The meeting was arranged by Dr. George N. Thompson after Mrs. Lillian V. Farmer had flown from Seattle to comfort her actress-daughter.

Miss Farmer was wearing the hospital uniform of gray slacks and white blouse when her mother entered the ward.

"Hello, Mom," the blonde actress greeted Mrs. Farmer. "Gee, you're looking great . . . Say, those are smart looking shoes."

They talked privately for 10 minutes.

Leaving the hospital, Mrs. Farmer told a reporter: "This is like sickness or death. It comes along and you face it, doing everything that is necessary. We want Frances to have a good rest. She has a broken heart."

The actress was divorced last Summer from Actor Lief Erickson. Later she was reported engaged to a Hollywood lawyer, who now is married to a society woman.

Following a jail sentence last week growing out of conviction of drunken driving, the actress was placed under observation. A sanity hearing will be held tomorrow before Superior Judge Dudley S. Valentine.

YOUTH INJURED IN CRASH WITH COAL CARRIER

Stewart Martin, 19, of 129 West Mill street, suffered a nose cut and bruises Tuesday at 6:45 a. m. when his northbound roadster crashed into a coal-laden truck just north of the Northridge road intersection on North Court street. He was enroute to the Fifth Service Command repair garage, West Goodale street, Columbus, where he is employed, when the accident happened.

Martin was taken to Berger hospital where he was discharged after treatment of his injuries.

Attachment proceedings were started against the truck and its coal, Martin charging that Melvin Thompson, 24, of Gallipolis RFD, its driver, had parked without providing proper lighting facilities to protect traffic.

Right front end of the Martin sport roadster, a 1931 Chevrolet, was damaged.

consolidate and extend their positions on Guadalcanal and to move in reinforcements and supplies.

Presence of Maj. Gen. Alexander M. Patch on Guadalcanal indicated that a strong army force now is on the island and that it probably has relieved virtually all the original marines who seized the vital Henderson airfield and held it for months against strong enemy assaults.

These army units now are engaged in a land offensive against the remaining Japanese troops on Guadalcanal, and recently they have been enveloping and wiping out enemy advance units. Thus, the Japs would have to retake ground lost in the last few weeks before they could again threaten Henderson airfield by land.

Disposition of American Pacific fleet units is secret, of course, but on the basis of past performance, U. S. warships undoubtedly are within striking distance of Guadalcanal and could move on a moment's notice to check any Japanese attack by sea.

MERCURY GOES TO 10 DEGREES IN SUDDEN DROP

Winter returned to Circleville and Pickaway county Tuesday, a strong wind reducing traffic, both automobile and pedestrian, to a standstill, and the temperature falling to 10 degrees above zero. Suddenness of the mercury fall was noted in the comparative readings announced by the weather bureau, the reading at 8 a. m. Tuesday by 23 degrees and at noon 13 degrees lower.

Roads became icy as rain which fell during the night froze. State highway department crews were assigned to cinder hills and curves on main roads.

Temperatures, which were dropping throughout Ohio, were reported at noon by weather officials as follows: Columbus 15; Dayton 8; Cincinnati 11; Huntsville 7; Findlay 9; Toledo 12; Cleveland 17; Akron 21; Cambridge 24.

Some schools were expected to close and one school bus in Columbus was expected to cancel its schedule because of the icy condition of grades on its route.

The state highway department reported roads in the area north and west of a line marked by Troy, Marysville, Upper Sandusky and Toledo were slippery but were being worked on by sanding crews. Route 95 was closed from Blacksville to a junction of route 89 in Wayne county. Some roads in eastern Ohio that were still wet from recent rains, would soon be icy as the cold wave reached the area.

21,497 LOST BY MARINES, COAST GUARD AND NAVY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—The total number of sailors, marines and coast guardsmen reported dead, wounded and missing from Pearl Harbor to December 31, 1942, was placed at 21,497 today when it was announced that casualties of the U. S. navy forces totaled 1,219 in the last half of December.

In its casualty list No. 20 covering personnel of the navy, marine corps and coast guard, the navy gave a recapitulation of casualties from December 7, 1941 to December 31, 1942 as follows:

Navy—4,975, dead; 2,012, wounded; 9,219, missing; 16,206, total.

Marine corps—1,319, dead; 1,806, wounded; 1,962, missing; 5,087, total.

Coast guard—50, dead; 19, wounded; 135, missing; 204, total.

Total—6,344, dead; 3,857, wounded; 11,316, missing; 21,497, total.

Casualties reported from December 16 to December 31, 1942 included 418 dead, 403 wounded and 398 missing.

TWO LEAVE FOR TRAINING IN WAR SHOP WORK

Junior C. Thompson of Circleville and Charles C. Clevenger of East Ringgold left Monday for Carrollton, O., to enter the Mustang war production and training center operated by the National Youth administration. A choice of training is offered the youths in machine shop, welding, radio, sheet metal or airplane mechanic fundamentals to prepare them for complete training at Patterson field, Fairfield.

Youths of 16 to 25 who are not ready for or eligible for the draft and who are employable are eligible for training. While in training the government furnishes room, board, medical and dental care, transportation to and from the center and $10.80 in cash each month.

Similar opportunities are offered to young women at the Mount Logan resident center near Chillicothe.

Free bus transportation is offered daily to Pickaway county youth interested in war production training in Columbus. Each youth receives $25 a month for this work.

Additional information may be obtained from Miss Catherine Weis, NYA field representative, who is in Circleville each Monday from 10:30 to noon at the U. S. employment service office in the courthouse.

LUXURY WINTER VEGETABLES ON SHORTAGE LIST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—Consumers can look forward to shortages of almost all "luxury" vegetables for the rest of the winter, agriculture department statistics revealed today.

With the winter growing season in Florida, California and Arizona at its height, sharp reductions have been noted in production of lettuce, green peppers, cauliflower, egg plant, celery, cucumbers, onions and artichokes.

The shortages can be blamed on the war, for the agriculture department has deliberately attempted to discourage production of these "luxury" winter crops in favor of increased planting of more nutritious foods needed by allies, service men and war workers.

The department theorized that there are not enough laborers, fertilizer or machinery to maintain full production of both luxury and necessity crops.

Thus, the overall reduction of 11 percent below the 1942 winter harvest is no surprise.

Pointing out that these "luxury" vegetables are not part of the basic American diet, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard recently asked farmers in the winter vegetable-producing areas to substitute for them foods rich in minerals.

"The farmers have apparently taken the hint," an official said. Farmers had been told that the government would not supply labor, fertilizer, support prices or transportation for the vegetables.

It's a short life now for the liquor dealers, and not a merry one.

MAJOR MOVE ANTICIPATED BY UNITED NATIONS

Russia's unwillingness to join the other Allies in the Pacific war has been based on the ground that it could not spare the strength to fight Japan while it was engaged in resisting German military might in the west.

When Germany's offensive power has been broken and the menace to Russia from that quarter overcome, it is felt that the United States and Great Britain might then be in a position to ask the Soviet for direct help in the Pacific conflict.

As for the attitude of the European people, it is pointed out, for example, that many of the Allied seamen, including the Norwegians, Dutch, Greek, Yugoslavian, and even the British, have not seen their families for a long time. When Germany has been defeated, the danger is seen that these men may feel the immediate menace to their homeland is over and they may want to go home and forget about the war.

GEORGE A. GRAHAM DIES AT HOME IN LANCASTER

George A. Graham, owner and manager of the Graham Milling company in Lancaster for the last 50 years and an uncle of Mrs. Fred Pierce of near Circleville, died Sunday afternoon at his home in the Fairfield county seat.

Funeral will be Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Graham was active in numerous Lancaster civic and church affairs, having served as president of the Nursing and Welfare association, Rotary club and Sons of the Revolution. He was an elder of the Presbyterian church for 40 years.

Survivors include his widow, three brothers and a sister.

EXCITEMENT OR CONTENTMENT?
Can the two go together? Can marriage be successful when one of the two prefers fun and night life to the responsibilities of a household? Kay Stevens, pretty career girl, and Jonathan Kerr, brilliant but shiftless young pianist, tried it—and found out.
Their courtship and marriage are typical of today! And the final solution of their problems makes not only intensely interesting reading but should be the answer to the problems of thousands.
WHERE CONTENTMENT LIES
A new novel by SUSANNE SHERIDAN
Begins Friday, January 22 in
The Daily Herald

Men you've never even met Are fighting for you now!

Americans, all—millions of them!

The son of the tailor down at the corner . . . the young brother of the banker . . . the nephew of the gas-station man . . . the farm boy from Iowa . . . the college boy from Park Avenue.

Fighting, all of them—for us. That's Democracy in action. Because all Americans were "created free and equal" every American has an equal duty to perform.

And that's where WE come in. We've got to back up those boys. We've got to see that they get the stuff to fight with. Planes . . . tanks . . . guns . . . bullets . . . bombs . . . more of them than the world has ever seen before.

Every payday we've got to save—put 10 percent of our pay in War Bonds. Millions of other Americans are doing it.

"Sacrifice," you say? As great a sacrifice as the boys made at Bataan or Corregidor? As great a sacrifice as a flier made who deliberately gave his life to bomb a Jap plane carrier?

Nothing we can do can ever equal what these men have already done!

Mind you, we're not even asked to give this money. Every time we save $18.75 we get a War Bond worth $25 in 10 years. That's why we're not looking for excuses, we Americans.

We're not looking for excuses from lending money, when other Americans are giving their lives!

DO YOU KNOW?

When you buy WAR BONDS, you're saving, not giving! Series E WAR BONDS are worth 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ percent more in 10 years! You get \$4 for every \$3 you invest!

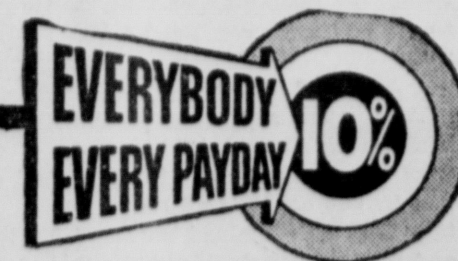

These BONDS, when held to maturity (10 years), yield 2.9 percent per year on your investment, compounded semiannually!

Joining a Pay-Roll Savings Plan makes saving easy!

Joining your bank's Victory Club (it works like any Thrift or Christmas Club) is a convenient way to save for War Bonds for those who aren't members of a Pay-Roll Savings Plan.

You can have enough money to do a lot of things you'd like to do, and to buy the many things you'll need after the war is over, if you save enough in War Bonds every payday NOW!

You can start buying WAR BONDS by buying War Stamps for as little as 10 cents.

SNOWBOUND

WHEN the wind howls and the snow piles up and it's dark in the mornings, and the sun sets too soon, and holidays are over but Spring a long way off, then comes the time to get the family together and read aloud. One of the most beautiful and unifying things in all the English language is Whittier's "Snowbound."

When life is dull even in sunny climates, because war makes everything harder, then it's time to cool off and refresh the mind with "Snowbound."

When war pervades everything and the very soul grows tired of its excursions and alarms, when movies offer no escape because they are whirling with the wings of war, when no magazine gives relief because it, too, is soaked in war, when the day's work is hard and out-door walks are out of the question, then comfort and recreation are to be found in the good old books.

Start with "Snowbound". It has sanity, fun and spiritual comfort. Then go on to some of the other older Americans. "There is Hawthorne with genius so shrinking and rare that you hardly at first see the strength that is there." There is James Russell Lowell, who is surprising in his modernity, Holmes with his humanity, Whitman with his expanding Americanism, Lanier with his pure beauty of line, Emerson with his philosophy and intellectual power.

The family will come back with a new sense of power and endurance, with a strengthened faith in the glory and purpose of their America.

WOMEN BANKERS

IT ALREADY seems strange, in a store or business office, to be waited on by a man. Banking is one more field which women are taking over. A large mid-western bank reports that 57 per cent of its employees are women, as against 45 per cent a year ago. It is easy to guess what next year's tale will tell.

Not all these gains will be held by women after the war ends, but some are sure to be. The war is already looming up as one of the great destructive forces that leaves a brand-new world in its wake.

Talk about progress! We used to brag about this nation's billion-dollar income, but now we can spend that much every morning before breakfast.

The latest masculine stunt is to squeeze the lather from your shaving brush and wash your hands with it.

This country may or may not have a genius for government, but it's now our leading industry.

Met Carl shortly after he came here seven years ago and chatted with him the last time a few days ago at his home. Started out to see him Saturday afternoon, but was advised by a mutual friend that he was weak and that more harm than good might be done by the visit. Carl was a happy sort even during the last two years when he knew that death might strike him down at any moment. Brought smiles to hundreds of persons even when expecting death. He looked on the brighter side of life and found it good. I'll miss him a lot. And, so will all the others who knew him. It was good for us all to have him here even for a short period.

The customer approached Wallace Crist and held out a wool scarf. Said she wished to buy it, but could find no price tag. Wallace examined the scarf and was surprised. None like it had been in stock for a year, he was convinced. But there it was, the woman had selected it from a sales counter and wished to buy it. She was informed that the price was 69 cents, paid it and left the store. Later a clerk approached Wallace and complained about losing a personal scarf she had left "for only a minute" on her counter. Yes, it was hers and Wallace had sold it. He lost money on that sale item.

This, I think, is interesting. A Cape Cod soldier received it from his wife.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

FDR WON'T RUN AGAIN

WASHINGTON—Among the President's close inner circle no one has talked with him about a fourth term, with the possible exception of Harry Hopkins, and Harry these days moves in such rarefied atmosphere that not even other White House intimates know exactly what he thinks or talks about to the President.

However, you can't get away from the fact that some of the President's friends already are discussing a fourth term. They are doing it with various degrees of reaction, however. Some mention it reluctantly, as if they didn't want it, but think it necessary because there is no one else on the Democratic horizon.

Some few definitely believe the President should run, hope he will run, and think he will be elected. They, however, are in a minority.

From one man, not as close as Hopkins but who sees the President frequently, comes this diagnosis:

"It will take wild horses to drag the Boss into running for a fourth term. But he isn't going to say so. There is nothing he loves more than to keep people guessing. He is going to do just what he did last time,—say nothing until the last minute.

"However, the picture is different from that in 1940. Then, we approached certain war, with only one man who could lead and unify the country in preparation for that war. The nation was torn between isolationists and interventionists. We could have been disastrously split, the way the Nazis planned. Only now do we realize how dangerously we were open to attack.

"That was the primary reason Roosevelt stayed on, to bridge us over the war gap. But now that we are in the war, and on the road to victory, he doesn't feel the same way. The issue is not so urgent, and he will not run in 1944."

Note: This friend omitted one factor from his diagnosis. FDR also wants to win the peace after the war. To this end, some friends think he should make a deal with Willkie or Henry Wallace to let him handle the peace after 1944 while they handle the White House.

DIET AND HEALTH

Number of Meningitis Cases Shows Increase

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

REPORTS are coming in which indicate that possibly an increase in epidemic meningitis may occur in the United States. The number of reported cases in 1942 is far ahead of those reported in 1941.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

and nearly twice those in 1940. We also hear that sporadic cases have begun to appear in the Army camps.

In World War I we never without meningitis in the Army camps. In 1917, when I arrived at the base hospital in San Antonio for duty, I took over a ward which had 20 cases of epidemic meningitis and during my two years stay there we always had one ward for these cases and we never had less than 5 patients, either active or convalescent, and often we had as many as 40.

There are two encouraging features of the possibility of such an epidemic which should be noted. As a matter of fact, both of them are the result of observations made during World War I epidemics.

Can Be Treated Successfully

First, the disease, if taken early enough, can be successfully treated. In 1910, 95 per cent of the patients died. From 1917 to 1919, the mortality was less than 5 per cent due to serum properly administered. Since then we now have the sulfonamide drugs which have proved successful adjuncts to serum.

The second feature which should be noted and which will save a great deal of morbidity is that people can learn to be on the lookout for the disease and detect it in an early stage. Army surgeons should be and are especially alert to the possibility that a soldier who has a fever and who becomes drowsy and mentally stuporous should have a diagnostic spinal fluid test in order to determine whether or not the condition may be meningitis. This applies to civilian practice as well.

This may seem to be obvious, but it is astonishing how many cases of infectious disease are seen early by physicians and dismissed as being due to "influenza" or a "bad cold" when the condition is actually something very serious. I have seen more cases of typhoid fever this fall than I have seen in the last 20 years and in about one-half of them the physician who was called in first diagnosed the situation as "influenza."

Epidemic meningitis is likely to occur whenever human beings mass from different parts of the country and there is a wide interchange of human contacts. It is probably spread by carriers who have become immune to the germs they have in their own nose and throat. That is why it is particularly likely to break out in wartime.

The germs probably get into the nose, then into the blood, and through the nose, by way of the small openings made by the olfactory nerves, into the coverings of the brain and spinal cord—the meninges. Here it sets up a pus infection which causes a depression of the entire nervous system.

Diagnosis can be made definitely by removing some spinal fluid from low down in the spine and determining whether there is any pus present and if the pus cells contain the meningococci. If this diagnostic test is positive, anti-meningococcal serum is administered into the spinal canal. Also, as I have indicated above, it is treated by the use of the sulfonamide compounds. Low mortality is obtained nowadays, even in fairly advanced cases, by these methods, and when the condition is taken early enough the danger should be reduced to a very small minimum.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. J. B.: Is there any benefit in using sulphur and molasses as a blood cleanser? What effect does it have on a person? Is there any harm in taking too much?

Answer: Sulphur and molasses, in spite of tradition, has no proved action on the blood. There may be a little iron in molasses and some mineral value in the sulphur, but that could be easily obtained in a different way. As far as I know, there is no harm in taking too much.

J. P.: What is Cheplin's acidophilus bacilli liquid and what is it mostly used for?

Answer: This is a culture which is used to put in milk to make it sour. It is used when the condition of the intestine is not satisfactory in some cases of diarrhea and in some cases of constipation.

I. M. M.: How long should a person have hot flashes due to an hysterectomy? I am thirty years old.

Answer: Usually at least a year; sometimes a little longer.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets that can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Fourteen homes in Circleville were quarantined for measles as city health officials started a drive to check a sudden epidemic of the malady.

Fred C. Clark, South Court street, announced that he had informed H. J. Berrodon, director of the division of aid for the aged, that he would be able to serve on the Pickaway county board to which he had recently been appointed.

Mrs. Blanche Kellogg was re-employed by the Circleville board of health as city health nurse for one year, at a salary of $1,800. Mrs. Harriet Wallace, East Main street, health clerk, was re-employed and granted an increase in salary from $35 to $50 a month.

10 YEARS AGO

Following out a system put into effect the first of the year wherein any able-bodied persons receiving poor relief must work on roads or any other work which the county might provide,

It was announced by the county commissioners that Howard Sweetman, county engineer, was to have sole charge of hiring and placing men.

James Wolford, Jackson township, was recovering from injuries suffered when he was accidentally thrown to the ground while hauling fodder.

Miss Charlotte Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peters of Jackson township, went to Cortland, N. Y., where she was to enter New York State Normal school.

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX

RESTWICK CARNES stood on the lanai and looked down at the deserted beach. There was scarcely a sound about the hotel. The terrace was deserted also. All meals were served indoors now and guests seemed to talk in muted voices as if afraid of being overheard. Instead of fighting against the memory of life as it had been, less than 48 hours earlier, the man gave in to it. That was a mistake, for it made him even more miserable.

He heard Choppo answer the telephone. "Denison," the youngster relayed. Rusty said:

"Tell him to come up!" Choppo obliged.

Over the youngster's freckled face was the look of a perturbed host. "What'll we do to entertain Denison?" He had walked out to lean beside Rusty.

"Denison and I," specified the man, "will have cocktails. You will go down and have your dinner. A sensible dinner." To relieve his sternness, he smiled and said, "Buy some sort of game for us to play tonight during the blackout. I'll expect you back in an hour."

The strained feeling between Rusty and Denison Ware was so intense that for a few minutes they scarcely spoke. They slipped their Scotch, puffed cigars and made comments about the attack.

Finally the red-haired man blurted, "I found out—about Eugenia. Paige told me I would some day. She said when I did she wanted to hear about it. She said she wanted to watch the expression on my face. She said it would be her revenge for the way I'd treated her. Well, she should be here now."

Denison Ware looked at his host's knotted hands. "I'm glad you found out that Paige is a right girl, but, you know, you don't have to relapse the affair for my sake. I don't have to be convinced. I knew she was an angel."

Restwick Carnes' laugh was dry. "And I thought Eugenia was. I wonder how any girl can appear to be such an angel and be so rotten."

"Rusty," his guest said quickly, "there's no need for this conversation. I don't want to hear about Eugenia's faults. You should be man enough to keep them to yourself." He set down his empty glass. "There's no need of any further talk—unless, do you have some idea of trying to hold Paige to the marriage? Could you possibly?"

Restwick Carnes fixed himself another drink. "That all depends."

"On what?" Ware's hands were shaking so that he could not prepare a second Scotch and soda for himself. He resented the amused expression on his host's face as he did it for him. "On what?" he repeated. "Answer and be quick about it."

"On whether she loves you or me."

"Our understanding was that she go to Reno, divorce you, come back and marry me."

"But you see, Denison, I have a cable in telling her not to do anything until we've had a chance to talk."

"That's pretty bad, Rusty."

"Why should you worry if you're so sure she loves you?" The mocking gaze in Restwick Carnes' sapphire blue eyes faded. "Relax, Denison. It's all up to Paige. Actually, I don't care. If she wants to stay with me, that's all right. If she walks out, that's all right, too. I just don't care. I don't care about anything." His freckled face crinkled. "When I learned about Eugenia, Denison, it was like death. It was worse than death. As it is, I live in a sort of dumpy fear of having to see her. I want her off the island, out of my sight."

He brought his eyes back to rest on Denison Ware's face. "Everything is over, for me."

"Oh now, Rusty, it isn't the end of the world, for lord's sake."

"Yes it is. It's the end of my world. Everything is changed now. I can't have what I want and I don't want what there is. So it's the end as far as I'm concerned."

Somehow he managed to put a smile across his freckled face. "Are you breathing any easier about Paige now?"

The dark-haired man answered the grin. "A little." He stood up, finishing his drink in one swift gulp. "And now I must go, Rusty. This time he offered his hand."

Restwick Carnes had other callers, immediately after Denison had gone. The lawyer who handled his personal affairs and two other lawyers from the Carnes Trust.

Their dismay over his bountiful bequests to Choppo escaped Rusty's eye entirely. Not that he would have cared. But he was too entranced by a vision of the future. The red-haired Chicago street boy—or man—whichever he would be when he learned of his good fortune, would be dumbfounded when he learned that the Carnes name on the building they had passed that morning actually was Rusty's.

Eugenia, too, would be dumbfounded. He did not know what she was expecting. Certainly not the mere $200 a month that he was leaving her. Carefully he specified that she should have the same amount after his death. He did not intend for her to pounce upon Choppo's inheritance.

"Those slight changes are all, gentlemen." With quick movements he prepared short drinks for the three lawyers. Shortly after, he dismissed them so that they might get home ahead of the blackout. Afraid of the dark. It fit! It fit everyone.

Oddly, Monday had been less frightening on the Lorelei than Sunday. Everyone was dazed by now, antidote for the shock; too, there was the slight encouragement of having come through one night and so many knots farther that the Japanese planes or submarines would not bother to follow.

That feeling of safety left Tuesday night with a jolt. At least left Abby and Paige. At dinner, their steward said, "I understand the entire Pacific coast is in blackout."

Abby's response to his whisper was, "For the love of heaven, why?"

Willingly he helped others in their hour of need. This day has no aspects. Let no one more closely into your life than he or she is at present. Not good for making new agreements or alliances.

Thirty minutes later Paige had picked up her car, stored in the hotel garage, and she and Abby were headed across the Bay bridge.

Abby looked beneath her and squawked, "The Lorelei! It's gone!" And it was. In less than 30 minutes. It was incredible. "I'll probably not know it when I see it again. If I do. It will be a dull gray." She stopped and set her chin.

Suddenly Paige said, "You know, Abby, this is the road to Palm Springs. I'm not going to Reno!" (To Be Continued)

SNOWBOUND
WHEN the wind howls and the snow piles up and it's dark in the mornings, and the sun sets too soon, and holidays are over but Spring a long way off, then comes the time to get the family together and read aloud. One of the most beautiful and unifying things in all the English language is Whittier's "Snowbound."

When life is dull even in sunny climates, because war makes everything harder, then it's time to cool off and refresh the mind with "Snowbound."
When war pervades everything and the very soul grows tired of its excursions and alarms, when movies offer no escape because they are whirling with the wings of war, when no magazine gives relief because it, too, is soaked in war, when the day's work is hard and out-door walks are out of the question, then comfort and recreation are to be found in the good old books.

Start with "Snowbound". It has sanity, fun and spiritual comfort. Then go on to some of the other older Americans. "There is Hawthorne with genius so shrinking and rare that you hardly at first see the strength that is there." There is James Russell Lowell, who is surprising in his modernity, Holmes with his humanity, Whitman with his expanding Americanism, Lanier with his pure beauty of line, Emerson with his philosophy and intellectual power.

The family will come back with a new sense of power and endurance, with a strengthened faith in the glory and purpose of their America.

WOMEN BANKERS
IT ALREADY seems strange, in a store or business office, to be waited on by a man. Banking is one more field which women are taking over. A large mid-western bank reports that 57 percent of its employees are women, as against 45 percent a year ago. It is easy to guess what next year's tale will tell.
Not all these gains will be held by women after the war ends, but some are sure to be. The war is already looming up as one of the great destructive forces that leaves a brand-new world in its wake.

Talk about progress! We used to brag about this nation's billion-dollar income, but now we can spend that much every morning before breakfast.

The latest masculine stunt is to squeeze the lather from your shaving brush and wash your hands with it.

This country may or may not have a genius for government, but it's now our leading industry.

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:
Up thinking about Carl Hunter and his passing and deeply grieved by the loss of a friend. Met Carl shortly after he came here seven years ago and chatted with him the last time a few days ago at his home. Started out to see him Saturday afternoon, but was advised by a mutual friend that he was weak and that more harm than good might be done by the visit. Carl was a happy sort even during the last two years when he knew that death might strike him down at any moment. Brought smiles to hundreds of persons even when expecting death. He looked on the brighter side of life and found it good. I'll miss him a lot. And so will all the others who knew him. It was good for us all to have him here even for a short period.

The customer approached Wallace Crist and held out a wool scarf. Said she wished to buy it, but could find no price tag. Wallace examined the scarf and was surprised. None like it had been in stock for a year, he was convinced. But there it was, the woman had selected it from a sales counter and wished to buy it. She was informed that the price was 69 cents, paid it and left the store. Later a clerk approached Wallace and complained about losing a personal scarf she had left "for only a minute" on her counter. Yes, it was hers and Wallace had sold it. He lost money on that sale item.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

FDR WON'T RUN AGAIN
WASHINGTON—Among the President's close inner circle no one has talked with him about a fourth term, with the possible exception of Harry Hopkins, and Harry these days moves in such rarefied atmosphere that not even other White House intimates know exactly what he thinks or talks about to the President.
However, you can't get away from the fact that some of the President's friends already are discussing a fourth term. They are doing it with various degrees of reaction, however. Some mention it reluctantly, as if they didn't want it, but think it necessary because there is no one else on the Democratic horizon.

Some few definitely believe the President should run, hope he will run, and think he will be elected. They, however, are in a minority.

From one man, not as close as Hopkins but who sees the President frequently, comes this diagnosis:

"It will take wild horses to drag the Boss into running for a fourth term. But he isn't going to say so. There is nothing he loves more than to keep people guessing. He is going to do just what he did last time,—say nothing until the last minute.

"However, the picture is different from that in 1940. Then, we approached certain war, with only one man who could lead and unify the country in preparation for that war. The nation was torn between isolationists and interventionists. We could have been disastrously split, the way the Nazis planned. Only now do we realize how dangerously we were open to attack.

"That was the primary reason Roosevelt stayed on, to bridge us over the war gap. But now that we are in the war, and on the road to victory, he doesn't feel the same way. The issue is not so urgent, and he will not run in 1944."

Note: This friend omitted one factor from his diagnosis. FDR also wants to win the peace after the war. To this end, some friends think he should make a deal with Willkie or Henry Wallace to let him handle the peace after 1944 while they handle the White House.

Ex-Congressman Wilburn Cartwright, Democrat of Oklahoma, has just been commissioned a major and is taking a course in military government at Charlottesville, Va., to become a military governor in North Africa. . . Likewise ex-Congressman Charles Faddis, Democrat of Pennsylvania, a reserve officer, is on the staff of Gen Eisenhower. He is handling liaison work among the Arabs and the French. . . The Army finds that men with Congressional experience have a knack for getting along with people and do well in these jobs. . . When Leon Henderson leaves his job as price czar, he will take a rest trip to Latin America. "How far I go will depend on how much it costs," he says. "I'll be a private citizen with no income, and airplane travel costs money." . . Henderson, who had nothing but his government salary, could make a small fortune at lobbying or lecturing, but won't. . . Manpower Boss McNutt is greasing the skids for another military man. Number of Meningitis Cases Shows Increase

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
REPORTS are coming in which indicate that possibly an increase in epidemic meningitis may occur in the United States. The number of reported cases in 1942 is far ahead of those reported in 1941.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

and nearly twice those in 1940. We also hear that sporadic cases have begun to appear in the Army camps.

In World War I we never without meningitis in the Army camps. In 1917, when I arrived at the base hospital in San Antonio for duty, I took over a ward which had 20 cases of epidemic meningitis and during my two years stay there we always had one ward for these cases and we never had less than 3 patients, either active or convalescent, and often we had as many as 40.

There are two encouraging features of the possibility of such an epidemic which should be noted. As a matter of fact, both of them are the result of observations made during World War I epidemics.

Can Be Treated Successfully
First, the disease, if taken early enough, can be successfully treated. In 1910, 95 per cent of the patients died. From 1917 to 1919, the mortality was less than 5 per cent due to serum properly administered. Since then we now have the sulfonamide drugs which have proved successful adjuncts to serum.

The second feature which should be noted and which will save a great deal of morbidity is that people can learn to be on the lookout for the disease and detect it in an early stage. Army surgeons should be and are especially alert to the possibility that a soldier who has a fever and who becomes drowsy and mentally stuporous should have a diagnostic spinal fluid test in order to determine whether or not the condition may be meningitis. This applies to civilian practice as well.

This may seem to be obvious, but it is astonishing how many cases of infectious disease are seen early by physicians and dismissed as being due to "influenza" or a "bad cold" when the condition is actually something very serious. I have seen more cases of typhoid fever this fall than I have seen in the last 20 years and in about one-half of them the physician who was called in first diagnosed the situation as "influenza."

Epidemic meningitis is likely to occur whenever human beings mass from different parts of the

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO
Fourteen homes in Circleville were quarantined for measles as city health officials started a drive to check a sudden epidemic of the malady.

Fred C. Clark, South Court street, announced that he had informed H. J. Berroddin, director of the division of aid for the aged, that he would be able to serve on the Pickaway county board to which he had recently been appointed.

Mrs. Blanche Kellogg was re-employed by the Circleville board of health as city health nurse for one year, at a salary of $1,800. Mrs. Harriett Wallace, East Main street, health clerk, was re-employed and granted an increase in salary from $35 to $50 a month.

MEMBERSHIPS GRANTED BY MONDAY CLUB

Mrs. Henry S. Lewis and Miss Clara Littleton were given honorary memberships in the Monday club at the regular session held Monday in the Library Trustees' room, Memorial hall. Mrs. Lewis became a member at the club's first meeting in September, 1890. She has served as president twice, in 1919-1920 and again in 1940-1941. Miss Littleton has been an active member of the club since 1891. She was president three times, in the years 1903-1904, 1915-1916 and 1927-1928. For eight consecutive years Miss Littleton served the club as recording secretary.

Mrs. Howard Newell Stevenson, club president, called the meeting to order and led the members in the Pledge to the Flag.

Mrs. Lewis as chairman of the Literature division, presented Mrs. W. T. Um who gave an interesting book review.

Mrs. Um chose for her book, "Queen of the Flat Tops", by Stanley Johnson. She chose this book because of the timeliness of its subject matter, the Sea. It had been given splendid reviews and Mrs. Um said she thought it worthy of such praise. She quoted R. L. Duffies of the New York Times as saying, "It is the most coherent eye-witness story of any sea battle that this reviewer has ever read."

Mrs. Um continued: "It is of course about war, but written in a nice way, it is strictly reporting, but good reporting with many informative details."

"Mr. Johnson was sent aboard The Lexington, which was 'The Queen of the Flat Tops', and he reports this last voyage of the vessel."

"With the sighting of the Jap movements, the pace of the book speeds up and the humor and good sense give way to a feeling of urgency and desperate endeavor, then comes a running account of the three actions."

In closing, Mrs. Um quotes Stanley Johnson as saying, "If this book conveys to the American people the knowledge that American boys of today are as valiant as any of the earlier heroes of this country, it will have served its purpose. I have seen men fight and die in two wars, men from many nations, and I am proud to say that I never saw men combat and die more gallantly than did these boys who are the sons, brothers, cousins and friends of every one of us."

Two Honored
Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ankrom, Circleville Route 1, entertained at dinner during the week end in honor of their son, J. Allen Ankrom, who is stationed at Norfolk, Va., and also Private Robert Waple, stationed at Boston, Mass., who were home on furloughs.

Guests included Mrs. Margaret Waple and son, Ned, of Walnut township; Miss Jean Penn, Pickaway township; Mrs. Ralph Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Ankrom, Miss Ethel Mae Reid and Ralph Ankrom of Circleville and the two honor guests. Mr. Ankrom and Private Waple returned to their duties during the week end.

ASHVILLE
Mrs. Russell Costlow, Duval, who underwent a major operation at Grant hospital Thursday, is "getting along fine" according to the word received from there. The same favorable sort of news comes from a Louisville hospital regarding the condition of Harry Sark there now far several days recovering from a major operation. How comes he is there? It is a government institution and Mr. Sark is an employee of Samuel as a railway mail clerk.

Our local horse dealer, Clarence (Jonsey) Messick, is out all over in wide territory on the hunt for sale horses most every day. Getting scarcer and harder to find all the time, he says. From a half to a dozen horses on most every farm was the general rule back not so many years ago and a buy or trade of some kind was not hard to make, but he knows for sure that it is quite different now. All of which takes us back there when the late Peter Noggle had a farm implement store over on the West side in the now, what is called the junk yard building. On our rounds one day, dropped in to chat a few minutes with Pete and while there, he showed us a circular letter which he had just received from the Ford Company explaining that they were then working on a machine which they felt sure could be hitched to a plow and break ground with no horses hitched to it. So here we are now with the horseless machine doing a whole lot of the farm work with no sign of a horse on the job. Farmers don't need them and no use to have 'em around and all the while eating a hole in the profits. This is about farm horses that pay no profit. The racing sort though, are good for "profits" but not kept for sale on the average farm.

Ashville—Walter Hedges, out east of the village, has just recently completed his new incubator house with all the insides plastered in best possible style by Ralph Cloud, and if appearances count for anything, it is a job well done. The two incubators already are making a good start toward, now soon, bringing into being hundreds of little, white fluffy balls which by Easter, April 25, will be the very finest sort of fries with no kind of ration card yet issued to prevent anyone from filling up clear full on this kind of eats and often as he likes. Getting many orders for chicks and much earlier than last year, Walter told us. About 2,500 laying hens are kept in stock, and receive the feed and care that keeps them "shelling 'em out" at the rate of about 100 dozens per day. To many, gathering in a basket full of newly laid eggs is a lot of fun, but when reaching into the hundred of dozens it becomes work and not so fine.

Perennial Black Dress

PERHAPS a dressmaker-soft, plain black frock wouldn't be the only dress you'd choose to have if you were to be cast away on a desert island; but it would be the choice for almost any other locale's only garment.

The model sketched here today is a honey of its kind, a simple basic silhouette with flattering softness arranged around a becoming, flat-panelled facade.

As shown in a fashion show originally, it is sketched with long gloves of tangerine suede and a matching draped pillbox hat of brushed rayon jersey of identical shade. The necklace is a modern Ali Baba piece of twisted pearls, coral, jade and turquoise colored beads. The muff is precious mink.

Overhead Rail Crossings

To Be Abolished?

Nobody would think of abolishing overhead railroad crossings, because they add so much to the safety of motorists.

And yet, many people persist in taking chances by drinking raw milk when the certain protection of pure, pasteurized milk is available. When you can buy pure milk, scientifically freed from danger of disease germs, it's foolish to buy any other kind.

ANDY DEVINE
Andy Devine, raspy-voiced comedian of the films, comes to the Music Hall to visit Bing Crosby next Thursday, at 9 p. m., over NBC.

Bing will sing "Mr. Zip-Zip-Zip," "I Heard That Song Before," "Some Sunny Day (Memory)" and the popular new samba "Brazil."

STORY BY ROSS
Lanny Ross, star of the CBS Comedy Caravan, tells this story of his recent appearance at Fort Knox, Kentucky. It just happened that four generals were present at the entertainment and Lanny asked them to come on stage. Emceeing the show was a buck private from the camp. The generals, whizzes when it comes to war tactics and quick decisions, were decidedly uncomfortable on stage and displayed this feeling by shifting from one foot to another, blushing and being embarrassed in general. The buck private-ence saw their discomfort, and attempted to right the situation. With a lordly air, the lowly private turned to the army big wigs and said: "At ease gentlemen." After a second's hush, it brought the house down, and the generals with it.

SHOW POSTPONED

Lieut. Philip L. Moore
Takes Bride in Texas

Ceremony Read
At Chapel In Camp Bowie

Mrs. Howard Benford Moore of 304 South Court street is announcing the wedding of her son, Lieutenant Philip Lee Moore, to Miss Jeanne Garman of New Bremen. They were married on Saturday, January 16, at Brownwood, Texas, the ceremony being performed at 2 p. m. in the 422nd Regimental Chapel of Camp Bowie. The Rev. Mr. Samuel Jones, regimental chaplain, read the service. The bride wore an attractive frock of white with matching hat, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Lieutenant Richard M. Emick of Columbus, Ohio, was best man. The bride, bridegroom and best man were all members of the class of 1942 of Ohio State university. The new Mrs. Moore is a member of the university chapter of Delta Zeta sorority, and Lt. Moore of Delta Upsilon fraternity. Mrs. Moore is the daughter of Mrs. Hazel Garman of New Bremen and is a former teacher of Art and English in the schools of Celina, Ohio. She will live at the Southern Hotel, Brownwood, Texas, while Lt. Moore is stationed at Camp Bowie.

Miscellaneous Shower
Honoring Mrs. Emerson Spicer, the former Eleanor Dresbach, Mrs. McClure H. Hughes entertained Saturday at an evening bridge party and miscellaneous shower at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Charles Naumann, 330 South Washington street. Contract bridge was played during the evening and score prizes were presented Mrs. James Lyle and Mrs. John Moore. The many lovely gift packages were in a shower arrangement in the dining room, pastel streamers falling from the white wedding bells on the chandelier to the table. After the bride opened her gifts, the informal social hour was concluded with a delightful lunch served at the card tables. In addition to Mrs. Spicer, Mrs. Lyle and Mrs. Moore, the guests were Mrs. Walter Osborne, Miss Wahnita Barnhart, Miss Ruth Robinson, Mrs. Hildebrand Jones, Miss Betty Sapp and Miss Mary K. May of Circleville and the Misses Louise Helwagen, Harriet Harman and Mary Jane Schlear of Dayton.

Williamsport Sorosis Club
An unusually fine review of the book, "The World at my Fingertips," was presented by Mrs. Dorothy East at the Monday session of the Williamsport Sorosis club which met at the home of Miss Twila West of that community. Twenty-five members were present for the splendid program. The book, by Kirsten Ohnstead, is the biography of a Minnesota boy who lost his eyesight at the age of 15 and it told of his education and accomplishments after that time. Splendidly written, the book lost nothing of its appeal in the excellent review arranged by Mrs. East who is a member of the teaching staff of the Williamsport schools. Mrs. Thurman Bowsher, president, conducted the business session and received reports of Mrs. Fred Tipton, secretary, and Mrs. Wendell Boyer, treasurer. Mrs. East served as program chairman for the meeting. Mrs. Bowsher named Mrs. Lee Luellen, Mrs. Paul Rose and Mrs. Archie Rawlinson as members of a nominating committee to present a slate of officers for the coming year at the February session. The meeting, February 15, will be at the home of Mrs. Harry McGhee and the 25th anniversary of the club will be celebrated. Several of the charter members will have charge of the meeting and a silver anniversary program will be arranged. In place of the guest speaker usually present at the February session, Floyd Hill of Williamsport will show motion pictures in color of scenes around the home village, flower gardens and also camps in Virginia and Tennessee. During the informal social hour, Miss West was assisted in serving a dessert course by Mrs. George Hamman Jr., Mrs. Maxwell Ferguson, Mrs. George James and Mrs. Katie West.

Birthday Observed
A group of friends and relatives gathered Sunday at the home of Clary Walliser, Saltcreek township, in honor of his birthday anniversary. Present were George Strous and son, Noah, Otis Walliser, Mrs. and Mrs. Nelson Walliser, Mrs. Mae Strous, Miss Mary Mowery, Private and Mrs. Floyd Moore and daughter, Sally Ann, Mrs. Myrl Collins, Mrs. Robert Collins and daughter, Rebecca Jane, Miss Blanche Walliser, Miss Viles Walliser and the honor guest. Miss Betty Reed of Franklin, Ind., is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. S. Shane, of Northridge road. Miss Reed is private secretary to Major Frane of Camp Atterbury, Ind.

Memberships Granted by Monday Club
Mrs. Henry S. Lewis and Miss Clara Littleton were given honorary memberships in the Monday club at the regular session held Monday in the Library Trustees' room, Memorial hall. Mrs. Lewis became a member at the club's first meeting in September, 1890. She has served as president twice, in 1919-1920 and again in 1940-1941. Miss Littleton has been an active member of the club since 1891. She was president three times, in the years 1903-1904, 1915-1916 and 1927-1928. For eight consecutive years Miss Littleton served the club as recording secretary. Mrs. Howard Newell Stevenson, club president, called the meeting to order and led the members in the Pledge to the Flag. Mrs. Lewis as chairman of the Literature division, presented Mrs. W. T. Uim who gave an interesting book review. Mrs. Uim chose for her book, "Queen of the Flat Tops", by Stanley Johnson. She chose this book because of the timeliness of its subject matter, the Sea. It had been given splendid reviews and Mrs. Uim said she thought it worthy of such praise. She quoted R. L. Duffies of the New York Times as saying, "It is the most coherent eye-witness story of any sea battle that this reviewer has ever read."

Mrs. Uim continued: "It is of course about war, but written in a nice way, it is strictly reporting, but good reporting with many informative details. "Mr. Johnson was sent aboard The Lexington, which was 'The Queen of the Flat Tops', and he reports this last voyage of the vessel. "With the sighting of the Jap movements, the pace of the book speeds up and the humor and good sense give way to a feeling of urgency and desperate endeavor, then comes a running account of the three actions." In closing, Mrs. Uim quotes Stanley Johnson as saying, "If this book conveys to the American people the knowledge that American boys of today are as valiant as any of the earlier heroes of this country, it will have served its purpose. I have seen men fight and die in two wars, men from many nations, and I am proud to say that I never saw men combat and die more gallantly than did these boys who are the sons, brothers, cousins and friends of every one of us."

Getting many orders for chicks and much earlier than last year, Walter told us. About 2,500 laying hens are kept in stock, and receive the feed and care that keeps them "shelling 'em out" at the rate of about 100 dozens per day. To many, gathering in a basket full of newly laid eggs is a lot of fun, but when reaching into the hundred of dozens it becomes work and not so fine.

Overhead Rail Crossings
Nobody would think of abolishing overhead railroad crossings, because they add so much to the safety of motorists. And yet, many people persist in taking chances by drinking raw milk when the certain protection of pure, pasteurized milk is available. When you can buy pure milk, scientifically freed from danger of disease germs, it's foolish to buy any other kind. The best Milk doesn't come from cows—it comes from RINGGOLD DAIRY FARM

ANDY DEVINE
Andy Devine, raspy-voiced comedian of the films, comes to the Music Hall to visit Bing Crosby next Thursday, at 9 p. m., over NBC. Bing will sing "Mr. Zip-Zip-Zip," "I Heard That Song Before," "Some Sunny Day (Memory)" and the popular new samba "Brazil."

STORY BY ROSS
Lanny Ross, star of the CBS Comedy Caravan, tells this story of his recent appearance at Fort Knox, Kentucky. It just happened that four generals were present at the entertainment and Lanny asked them to come on stage. Emceeing the show was a buck private from the camp. The generals, whizzes when it comes to war tactics and quick decisions, were decidedly uncomfortable on stage and displayed this feeling by shifting from one foot to another, blushing and being embarrassed in general. The buck private-ence saw their discomfort, and attempted to right the situation. With a lordly air, the lowly private turned to the army big wigs and said: "At ease gentlemen." After a second's hush, it brought the house down, and the generals with it.

SHOW POSTPONED
Jack Benny is postponing his January 21 appearance on the CBS Stage Door Canteen program because of his strenuous service camp appearance schedule. After his return to the west coast, he'll be piped into the program from the Hollywood Canteen. DINAH AT BALL

Dinah Shore, whose blue songs are heard each Friday night, will probably be one of the Hollywood contingent to be taken to Washington for President Roosevelt's Infantile Paralysis Ball on January 29. Dinah has appeared on all "March of Dimes" programs in connection with the Fund drive and in addition has made and donated all the earnings of a record to the cause—earnings which have already gone into thousands.

KAY AS GUEST
When Kay Kyser is Bob Hope's guest over NBC Tuesday at 10 p. m., the broadcast will originate at the U. S. Navy Section Base, Terminal Island, San Pedro, Calif. The following week Bing Crosby, movie partner of Hope, is expected to appear on the airshow.

FUTURE ADMIRALS
Vox Pop visits Admiral Farragut Academy, one of the leading naval preparatory schools in the United States, on Toms river, Pine Beach, New Jersey, where Parks Johnson and Warren Hull will interview stalwart adolescents training for future Navy commissions, on Monday, January 25, at 8 p. m. over the CBS network. Now in its tenth year, Farragut Academy is an honor naval school by designation of Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, as such, it may name its leading graduates to compete for appointments to the United States Naval Academy.

KINGSTON
Mrs. James Reisinger is visiting her daughter in Columbus this week. Sergeant and Mrs. John Frederick Maag of Parris Island, South Carolina, arrived on Thursday to enjoy a fourteen day furlough with his mother, Mrs. Roy Peart of Circleville and grandmother, Mrs. Ada C. Dresbach and family of Kingston. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gower and son Robert had for their dinner guests Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McGowan and daughter, Sharon Dee, of Columbus.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

Brig. Gen. William Rose, in charge of the manning tables of the Labor Utilization Bureau. This is an important job—rating workers and jobs on their value to the war.

Rose will be replaced by a civilian Gen. McSherry has already exited and McNutt is anxious to run the Manpower Board chiefly with civilians.

Big Bill Knudsen did something the other day which amazed even his friends. They had not suspected that he could talk in deaf-mute language.

Lieut. Gen. Knudsen was inspecting war plants, accompanied by other Army officers. He dropped in at the Reynolds Metal Co., Louisville, Ky., where approximately 25 percent of the employees are deaf-mutes.

By shifting the lunch period, the management gathered all the workers to hear a talk from Knudsen. The foreman told him about the deaf-mutes, adding as a jest, "You'd better talk to them in sign language."

But it was no jest to Knudsen. To the amazement of the foreman and the Army officers, he broke into the sign language and carried on a discourse with his hands. The officers gasped, then applauded.

Later, individual workers were brought up to meet Knudsen, and he stood around talking with them in the sign language.

Note: By finding war work for these handicapped workers, Reynolds Metal Co. has increased their earnings from $17 a week to $40-plus.

RACE RELATIONS

War Shipping Administration has made an inside report on racial good-will aboard the SS Booker T. Washington, where trouble was expected because of a mixture of races under colored Capt. Hugh Mulzac.

But when the ship completed her first run, with a check-board crew and colored officers, the War Shipping Administration reports that it could find nothing but friendly cooperation aboard.

In addition to Capt. Mulzac, the second and third officers, the chief engineer and two assistants were Negroes. Other officers were whites, and the crew were a mixture of white and colored.

The Booker T. Washington sailed from San Pedro, went through the Canal, and landed in New York. Inspectors found the vessel ship-shape, and when they questioned the crew, only four men wanted to quit the ship, as against normal defections of half the crew.

Reason for the good-will, according to the War shipping Administration, was that, after the ship got to sea, Capt. Mulzac invited all men from the deck department to take instruction in navigation every afternoon in their spare time, to prepare themselves for examinations and promotions.

Chief Engineer Irving Smith, also colored, likewise offered engineering instruction.

Morale was so high at the end of the voyage that the men invested extra pay in war bonds, donated a pint of blood each for blood banks, and chipped in to buy Capt. Mulzac a gold watch.

Note: Before the ship sailed from San Pedro, Luckenbach Steamship Co. had withdrawn two white officers in favor of colored officers. Whereupon the union (Masters, Mates and Pilots, West Coast No. 90) said, "Fair employment is OK, but why discriminate against white men?"

PUBLIC SALE

Count Fleet Touted as Kentucky Derby Choice

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—The day was as dark as a certain dictator's future when out of an envelope we plucked a sports release that filled the room with the fresh, clean smell of blue grass, changed the clacking rhythm of the typewriter keys to the thumping thud of horses' hooves and carried us, in reverie, back to Louisville for another running of the famed Kentucky Derby.

Each year about this time the "man" comes around. His name is Frank Menke and his job is to convince the waiting world that the impending derby will be even greater than the many great races that have already filled its colorful history.

Maybe Col. Matt Winn, aged director of the race, has rationed Brother Menke this year. Frank's typewriter is still clicking however, and it was the first of his releases that fell out on our desk today and prompted us to pass along a little information we know you will all appreciate.

It is simply this: Count Fleet will win the 1943 derby.

There it is, brother. We have never been in the habit of stringing along with Winter book favorites in the Blue Grass classic and the Count seems a cinch to wind up the choice when, and if, any of those generous gentlemen begin accepting wagers this year.

This time, however, we are convinced the favorite is a cinch. We saw every good two year old in the country last season and the Count was by far the best.

First Trials Near

The son of Reigh Count is an imposing-looking fellow who apparently has wintered well for Trainer Don Cameron has him en route to Oaklawn, Hot Springs for the first trials of his three year old career.

The Count won 10 races, was second four times and third once in 15 starts as a juvenile, taking down $75,245 in purses and streaking a mile in 1:34 4-5 seconds at Belmont Park to establish a new world's record for two year olds. Its memory of the way he did it that's got us so excited and offering you this strictly confidential tip.

We got our first look at the Count one afternoon up at Empire City. He was in with a pretty fair field of sprinters and was five lengths or so back of the leaders as they swung for the stretch turn.

Here Johnny Longden loosened his hold and without seeming to make the slightest effort Count Fleet was up on top of the them in a few jumps. Despite a very short stretch at Empire he was pulling

On the Capital team was Paul (Bucky) Walters of Circleville who tallied six points.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

Brig. Gen. William Rose, in charge of the manning tables of the Labor Utilization Bureau. This is an important job—rating workers and jobs on their value to the war.

Rose will be replaced by a civilian Gen. McSherry has already exited and McNutt is anxious to run the Manpower Board chiefly with civilians.

Big Bill Knudsen did something the other day which amazed even his friends. They had not suspected that he could talk in deaf-mute language.

Lieut. Gen. Knudsen was inspecting war plants, accompanied by other Army officers. He dropped in at the Reynolds Metal Co., Louisville, Ky., where approximately 25 percent of the employees are deaf-mutes.

By shifting the lunch period, the management gathered all the workers to hear a talk from Knudsen. The foreman told him about the deaf-mutes, adding as a jest, "You'd better talk to them in sign language."

But it was no jest to Knudsen. To the amazement of the foreman and the Army officers, he broke into the sign language and carried on a discourse with his hands. The officers gasped, then applauded.

Later, individual workers were brought up to meet Knudsen, and he stood around talking with them in the sign language.

Note: By finding war work for these handicapped workers, Reynolds Metal Co. has increased their earnings from $17 a week to $40-plus.

RACE RELATIONS

War Shipping Administration has made an inside report on racial good-will aboard the SS Booker T. Washington, where trouble was expected because of a mixture of races under colored Capt. Hugh Mulzac. But when the ship completed her first run, with a check-board crew and colored officers, the War Shipping Administration reports that it could find nothing but friendly cooperation aboard.

In addition to Capt. Mulzac, the second and third officers, the chief engineer and two assistants were Negroes. Other officers were whites, and the crew were a mixture of white and colored.

The Booker T. Washington sailed from San Pedro, went through the Canal, and landed in New York. Inspectors found the vessel ship-shape, and when they questioned the crew, only four men wanted to quit the ship, as against normal defections of half the crew.

Reason for the good-will, according to the War Shipping Administration, was that, after the ship got to sea, Capt. Mulzac invited all men from the deck department to take instruction in navigation every afternoon in their spare time, to prepare themselves for examinations and promotions. Chief Engineer Irving Smith, also colored, likewise offered engineering instruction.

Morale was so high at the end of the voyage that the men invested extra pay in war bonds, donated a pint of blood each for blood banks, and chipped in to buy Capt. Mulzac a gold watch.

Note: Before the ship sailed from San Pedro, Luckenbach Steamship Co. had withdrawn two white officers in favor of colored officers. Whereupon the union (Masters, Mates and Pilots, West Coast No. 90) said, "Fair employment is OK, but why discriminate against white men?"

Count Fleet Touted as Kentucky Derby Choice

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—The day was as dark as a certain dictator's future when out of an envelope we plucked a sports release that filled the room with the fresh, clean smell of blue grass, changed the clacking rhythm of the typewriter keys to the thumping thud of horses' hooves and carried us, in reverie, back to Louisville for another running of the famed Kentucky Derby.

Each year about this time the "man" comes around. His name is Frank Menke and his job is to convince the waiting world that the impending derby will be even greater than the many great races that have already filled its colorful history.

Maybe Col. Matt Winn, aged director of the race, has rationed Brother Menke this year. Frank's typewriter is still clicking however, and it was the first of his releases that fell out on our desk today and prompted us to pass along a little information we know you will all appreciate.

It is simply this: Count Fleet will win the 1943 derby.

There it is, brother. We have never been in the habit of stringing along with winter book favorites in the Blue Grass classic and the Count seems a cinch to wind up the choice when, and if, any of those generous gentlemen begin accepting wagers this year.

This time, however, we are convinced the favorite is a cinch. We saw every good two year old in the country last season and the Count was by far the best.

First Trials Near

The son of Reigh Count is an imposing-looking fellow who apparently has wintered well for Trainer Don Cameron has him en route to Oaklawn, Hot Springs for the first trials of his three year old career.

The Count won 10 races, was second four times and third once in 15 starts as a juvenile, taking down $75,245 in purses and streaking a mile in 1:34 4-5 seconds at Belmont Park to establish a new world's record for two year olds. Its memory of the way he did it that's got us so excited and offering you this strictly confidential tip.

We got our first look at the Count one afternoon up at Empire City. He was in with a pretty fair field of sprinters and was five lengths or so back of the leaders as they swung for the stretch turn.

Here Johnny Longden loosened his hold and without seeming to make the slightest effort Count Fleet was up on top of the them in a few jumps. Despite a very short stretch at Empire he was pulling

PECK LOOKS FOR TRAINING SITE FOR CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19—Roger Peckinpah was in Indiana today still on the look for a training camp for the Cleveland Indians ball club, of which he is vice president. The Marietta, O., site is still No. 1, but the Indiana choice would be an alternate in case the Ohio city is unavailable.

If either Indiana town is chosen, Indianapolis or Lafayette, where Purdue university is located, the Tribesmen would be close to training camps where they could get some fast practice opposition. The Chicago Cubs and White Sox, the Cincinnati Reds, Detroit Tigers and Pittsburgh Pirates already call the Hoosier state homebase for winter training. The two St. Louis clubs have not yet chosen their training camp.

DYKES TO BE READY TO LEAD CHICAGO CLUB

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19—Jimmie Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, was reported recovering today from an operation for gall stones, an ailment which has been troubling him for several years.

After the operation which was performed in the Cedar of Lebanon hospital yesterday, physicians said he probably would recover in time to start Spring training with the White Sox at French Lick Springs, Ind., next March.

BUCKEYES WIN FROM CHICAGO

Captain Freddie Miller Paces Ohioans To Big Ten Victory

COLUMBUS, Jan. 19 — The Scarlet and Gray basketballers today were celebrating their first Big Ten victory with the defeat of the Chicago Maroons at Columbus auditorium last night to the tune of 47-29. However, in view of Chicago's miserable record and since the Buckeyes themselves hardly looked like world beaters, fans today found little to cheer about in the triumph.

It was the thirty-fourth consecutive defeat for the Maroons in the Western Conference and their twenty-ninth against all opposition. The Buckeye quintet had lost twice previously to a strong Indiana five in its first Western Conference games of the season.

Captain Freddie Miller led the Bucks attack, scoring 22 points as he found the nets for 10 fielders, several of them long-rangers. Much discussed wholesale changes failed to materialize and Captain Miller and Max Gecowets started at Forward, JayTee White, at center, and Dick Shrider and Lou Traibitz, at Guards, completed the starting lineup. More than 15 Buckeyes however saw duty in the game before the closing gun was fired.

The Ohio Staters connected on 20 out of 114 chances from field goals. Chicago made good on nine of 74 attempts. From the free throw line the Bucks made good seven of 14 tries while Chicago cashed in on 11 to 18.

Armond Lillen's fielder at the outset gave Chicago an early lead but Miller's three-in-a-row sewed up things for the bucks. Halftime score was 22 to 12.

Don Grate, Greenfield McClain, high school edge star of the last several years, paced the Ohio State freshmen to a 44-30 victory over Capital university reserves Monday night in a preliminary to the Ohio-Chicago contest.

Grate scored 15 points from his center position.

On the Capital team was Paul (Bucky) Walters of Circleville who tallied six points.

BASEBALL SURE TO BE INFERIOR FOR NEXT YEAR

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—There is a feeling among our better baseball minds, if any, that baseball is going to be artificially inferior next season because so many stand-out stars have been lost to the services, but I doubt that the change will be apparent to any save the most discerning of experts. That lets me out, along with you and about 99% of every 100 fans, all of whom will have their fun with the firm conviction that everything is all right. We won't know the difference, once we get used to the absence of Terry Moore, Joe DiMaggio, Phil Rizzuto, Johnny Pesky and the others of the elite baseball breed.

And everything will be all right, as a matter of fact, whether the season lasts only until July or goes all the way to the finish, for the game won't be any the less thrilling and may be even more interesting because of the chance that the leagues will be better balanced. All have been hard hit. The stand-out stars have lost the stand-out stars who made them click. They only hope they can hang on to enough of the rest to keep going.

Any change in the quality of the game will be scarcely noticeable day-by-day. On nine plays out of 10 the DiMaggios and the Moores look much like any other ball player, and it is the extreme occasional chance that makes them great. Yet their successors will put as much thrill into it for most of us. A few observers will try to spoil it all no doubt by remembering aloud after a heroic effort by Center Fielder Joe Blow, late of the Sally league, that DiMaggio used to go all the way to the flag pole and catch them in his hip pockets. However, there is an answer to that.

NARRAGANSETT IS HOPING TO STAGE ITS RACES

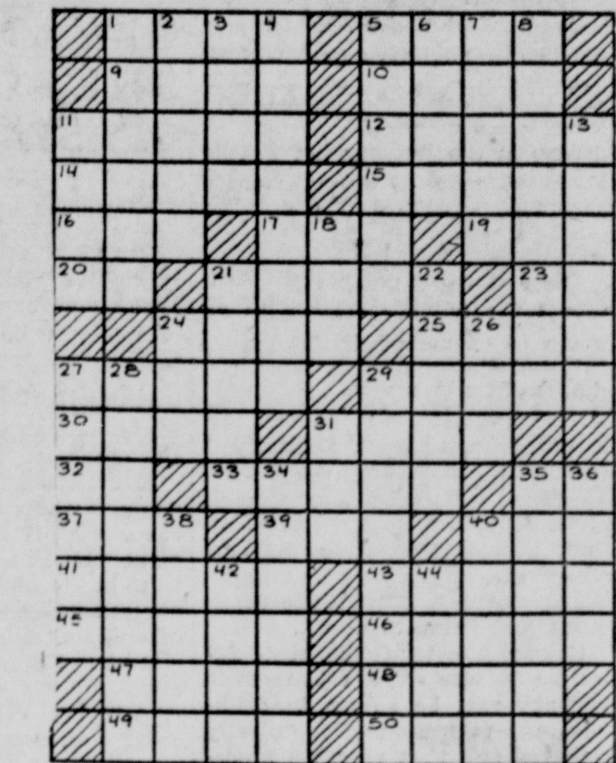

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 — Basing his action on the hope that "the present gasoline restrictions may be modified before the time comes for the opening of the Spring meeting," Judge James E. Dooley, president of the Narragansett Racing association, applied for racing dates in 1943.

The application, filed with John E. Martin, racing administrator of Rhode Island, requests dates for two meetings; April 10 to May 8, and August 9 to September 25, covering 47 days of racing.

Salvage Pennant Presented County at Luncheon Meeting

JOHN DEXTER PRAISES LOCAL SCRAP EFFORT

Need For Fats And Tin Is Stressed, Speed Urged In Collection

NECESSITY EXPLAINED

Honor Flag Starts Tour Of Schools Before Unfurling At Courthouse

Pickaway county's salvage pennant, won for surpassing the established quota during last fall's campaign, was presented at a luncheon meeting Monday in the Betz restaurant. Presentation was made by John Dexter, assistant salvage director for Ohio, and the pennant was received by Dan McClain, county salvage chairman. Some score of prominent participants in the campaign were guests. "Presentation of this pennant does not mean that Pickaway county has completed its share of salvage work," Mr. Dexter declared. "The need for scrap of all kinds is as urgent today as it was last Summer. You must continue your efforts, for the need will exist as long as this war continues."

Tin and fat collections were discussed by the speaker, who declared that Alice Sensenbrenner, chairman of the division for fat collection, has a great task ahead of her.

Fats and Tin

"Every citizen must save fats and tin, metals of all sorts," Mr. Dexter declared. "Fats are extremely important right now, for Japan has shut us off from our original source of supply as she has shut us off from tin and silk and other vital materials."

"Fats are needed to make explosives. We can't make them without fats. And the explosive charges that go into our big guns are encased in silk bags. No other material will serve so well. That means that all old silk materials should be turned over to the government. Nylon is needed, too. At one time we made our parachutes from silk, but we have silk no longer, so now we are making them of nylon, and a superior chute, too."

Collection Planned

"Every metal dealer in your county must arrange to accept the fats brought to the store by housewives. Arrangements are being made for regular collection from the dealers. Arrangements are being made to collect silk articles and tin cans. And do not forget that the ends must be cut from both ends of the cans and the cans flattened before collection. Your chairman tells me that a plan now is in the making for the collection of cans. Start saving them right now and keep on saving them. Every ounce of tin we can obtain is necessary. As a matter of actual fact tin is the number one vital metal today."

"Tin is necessary in bearings of all vehicles of land, sea or air. It is necessary to make new cans in which to ship food to our soldiers in far away places. From tin we are obtaining today one of the greatest drugs of medical history, a drug that is saving lives of Yankee fighters every day and will save thousands more if it is available."

Need Stressed

"Some have complained because collection is slow as regards some vital materials. Well, they certainly didn't expect us to use all that scrap in a day or two, did they? We know where all this metal is and we are collecting it as rapidly as possible. And the speed with which we are using the metal would surprise practically everyone. The unsightly piles of metal you see are nothing more or less than Uncle Sam's ace in the hole. We'll get every ounce of it and then ask you to dig up more. Don't think we are not in need of metal. We are."

"Keep up your scrap efforts. Keep on your toes and urge all others to do the same. Every citizen is an important cog in the machinery Uncle Sam has geared for victory. If enough of those cogs fall then the entire machine breaks down and the Axis leaders will stand with a foot on our throats. You all have done a grand job so far. Keep it up and maintain full pride in playing important roles in the war effort."

Dan McClain was particularly

RAILROADS OF NATION DOING GREAT WAR JOB

AURORA, Ill., Jan. 19 — The railroads of the nation in 1942 performed an amount of freight transportation more than double the annual average in the 10-year period preceding Pearl Harbor, Z. G. Hopkins declared today.

Hopkins, representing the Western Railways' Committee on Public Relations, made his statement in an address before the Aurora Rotary club. He added: "An amount of passenger service about two and a half times as great as the annual average in the preceding 10 years also was performed."

Hopkins said that, even with this record, the railroads have not reached the limit of their service capacity.

POLICE JOIN HUNT FOR TWO NEGRO FUGITIVES

Circleville police were asked Monday afternoon to keep an eye out for two Negro fugitives from the Boys' Industrial school, near Lancaster. Both fled Sunday, and authorities at the school thought they might try to reach their homes in Cincinnati by hitchhiking through Circleville.

They were named as Dewey Waller, 14, and James Brown, 15, praised by Mr. Dexter for his leadership in the scrap collection effort. Mr. McClain pledged continued all-out effort on the part of himself and his committee and voiced certainly that Pickaway county will continue among the leading counties of the state and nation.

The salvage pennant was taken to the high school for display and later will be shown at all school buildings in the county before being flown at the courthouse. The school display was arranged by Mr. McClain in recognition of the important part played in the campaign by boys and girls.

Unification of County Welfare Activities Praised by Sherwood

Creation of county welfare departments as urged by Governor John Bricker in his recent message to the Ohio legislature would "streamline" administration of public aid throughout Ohio and result in major economies.

This statement was made Tuesday by Charles L. Sherwood, state welfare director, who declared that county welfare units would permit coordination of various aid programs and at the same time eliminate confusion and duplication of effort which is possible under existing conditions in which a number of county agencies now administer a variety of welfare services.

Some of the activities whose administration would be coordinated by creation of a centralized welfare unit would include aid for the blind, dependent children and relief in areas now administered by county commissioners. Under the plan now being studied, the county welfare departments would be under a director who would be appointed by the county commissioners.

Under the Pickaway county set up, D. H. Marcy, the relief director, is an employee of the county commissioners while the blind and dependent children are handled through another office headed by Mrs. Virginia Adkins.

Proposed legislation now under consideration would combine the administration of certain welfare activities in each county into a single department. No new activities would be created nor would the proposed legislation change the financing of any programs involved and would not affect the status of township trustees in relationship to the present relief program.

Mr. Sherwood said that according to the plan studied, provisions would also be made to retain the present civil service status of all employees who would be affected by the coordination of the welfare services, providing they were necessary to carry on the work.

In pointing out the need for unification of county welfare activities, Mr. Sherwood cited the fact that representatives from the state welfare department at present must deal with 154 city and county relief areas in Ohio and in each county of the state deal with separate agencies in problems associated with the programs for dependent children and the needy blind.

CIRCLEVILLE GIRLS PRAISED AS MECHANICS

Two Circleville girls who are holding down defense jobs at the Columbus Bolt Works are the subjects of an interesting article appearing this week in the publication of the Columbus firm.

The girls are Kathryn and Ruth Davis, both of whom took technical training for machinists under the NYA program. They took instruction for two months and then were adjudged capable of handling jobs in the machine shop of the Bolt Works.

"While in the NYA shops," the article says, "they were first put in the tool crib until they became familiar with all the various instruments and could select their own tools for their definite jobs. They were then put on a machine with a trained girl until capable of running it themselves."

"Kathryn runs a shaper and Ruth a lathe. They work from 3 p. m. to 11 p. m. and admit they would rather work on that shift because the time goes so much faster than on the earlier trick."

The article says that both attend classes each day at the Bolt Works before starting to work. They are learning to read blue prints, so that some day they may be given a blue print, get a piece of steel, set up the proper machine and go ahead without instruction.

"Kathryn and Ruth," the publication says, "are typical of thousands of American girls who are traveling the same road. No longer do they stay home. Instead they have gone on their own to do their share in helping to win the war. The glamour girls of 1943 are the girls in coveralls, the girls who help produce the equipment to win the war."

Terrible news from Washington. A friend there says it gets harder and harder to find anyone who needs government help.

HENRY CANTER DIES AT HOME IN ASHVILLE

Henry Canter, 73, a retired Ashville hardware dealer, died of complications Tuesday at 6:40 a. m. at his home, 149 West Main street, Ashville. He was a native of Jackson county, born March 13, 1869, a son of Harrison and Hannah Keller Canter.

Mr. Canter's survivors include his widow, Meta Timberman Canter; four children, Wendell of Columbus, Sheldon of Zanesville, Wade of the U. S. army and Maxene of St. Mary's; four grandchildren; two brothers, John and George of Columbus, and four sisters, Mrs. Milda Long and Mrs. Metta McCormick of Columbus, Mrs. Elizabeth Baker of Five Points and Mrs. Orpha Freeman of Dayton.

Funeral will be Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Ashville United Brethren church, the Rev. O. W. Smith officiating. Funeral arrangements are in charge of E. F. Schlegel, Ashville.

TIRE INSPECTION AT EARLY DATE URGED BY MAY

Although the schedule for periodic inspection of auto tires has been changed, Circleville and Pickaway county motorists are being urged to not wait for the new deadlines.

OPA officials declare that tire conservation under the new plan will depend more than ever on voluntary cooperation by the motorists.

"Some tires inspected show need for recapping immediately to preserve them for further mileage, although the car owner was not aware of the need," Leslie May, chief of the OPA tire panel for Pickaway county, declared Tuesday.

"The sooner you go to an official OPA inspection station, the better. If you need a recap the inspector will recommend it and help you fill out an application to your local War Price and Rationing Board." Under the revised plan motorists are given an extension of time beyond the former January 31 deadline for the first inspection and subsequent examinations will be less frequent.

A stagger system will be used so that there will be three different deadlines. All holders of basic A mileage rations will have until March 31 for their initial tire inspection, with subsequent examinations for this group once every six months, as against the former requirement of once every four months.

Motorists with B and C supplementary books or bulk coupons for fleets will be required to get their first inspections by February 28. After that, inspections for B book holders will be once every four months, and for C book holders and bulk coupon holders once every three months. Formerly the schedule for B and C inspections was once in two months.

Draft Contingent to Leave City Wednesday

Pickaway county's January contingent of draftees will leave Wednesday for Columbus and final physical examination before induction into Uncle Sam's armed forces. That the percentage of acceptance will be high was indicated when the draft board disclosed that nearly all of the personnel of the contingent will be 18 and 19 year old boys of the older bracket. February call is expected to take the remaining boys of the fifth registration, this group being called in according to age and not number, meaning that the youngsters who have reached their nineteenth birthdays first will be inducted before the younger fellows.

Also in the January list will be about 10 men of older brackets who have been deferred for various reasons until now.

Draft board is not permitted to report the number of men to be taken to Columbus, but it points out that the number is less than 100.

Drive against draft delinquency is scheduled to open February 1 throughout the state with Ohio Selective Service warning men of 18 to 45 who have failed to keep their boards informed of changes of address, dependency or occupational status that they are delinquent and liable to arrest.

Colonel Chester Goble, state Selective Service chief, said that no leniency will be shown to delinquents who have not voluntarily reported and that vigorous prosecution of all such cases has been assured by the Department of Justice.

Violators are subject to $10,000 fine or five years imprisonment, or both.

Pickaway county board has been advised of the first replacement schedule approved by the Ohio draft office for an Ohio industrial plant. It is the Stearns and Foster company, Lockland, Cincinnati. The plant was given acceptance No. 1 by Colonel Goble.

Local board pointed out that Selective Service officials are urging all industries to set up a replacement schedule so that boards may be aided in granting or rejecting deferment requests. For instance, the board declared, a local plant which is training replacements for men now employed is aware that some of those persons will be called into service sooner or later.

The replacement schedule would set up a complete list of employees, their work, their draft status, and other details, in addition to a date which would indicate approximately what date they could be replaced. If an individual's number should come up draft boards have been urged by state officials to give serious consideration to the replacement date listed.

This action should be taken providing the industry has submitted its replacement schedule to state Selective Service and has been given an acceptance rating.

Salvage Pennant Presented County at Luncheon Meeting

JOHN DEXTER PRAISES LOCAL SCRAP EFFORT

Need For Fats And Tin Is Stressed, Speed Urged In Collection

NECESSITY EXPLAINED

Honor Flag Starts Tour Of Schools Before Unfurling At Courthouse

Pickaway county's salvage pennant, won for surpassing the established quota during last Fall's campaign, was presented at a luncheon meeting Monday in the Betz restaurant. Presentation was made by John Dexter, assistant salvage director for Ohio, and the pennant was received by Dan McClain, county salvage chairman. Some score of prominent participants in the campaign were guests. "Presentation of this pennant does not mean that Pickaway county has completed its share of salvage work," Mr. Dexter declared. "The need for scrap of all kinds is as urgent today as it was last Summer. You must continue your efforts, for the need will exist as long as this war continues."

Tin and fat collections were discussed by the speaker, who declared that Alice Sensenbrenner, chairman of the division for fat collection, has a great task ahead of her.

Fats and Tin

"Every citizen must save fats and tin, metals of all sorts," Mr. Dexter declared. "Fats are extremely important right now, for Japan has shut us off from our original source of supply as she has shut us off from tin and silk and other vital materials."

"Fats are needed to make explosives. We can't make them without fats. And the explosive charges that go into our big guns are encased in silk bags. No other material will serve so well. That means that all old silk materials should be turned over to the government. Nylon is needed, too. At one time we made our parachutes from silk, but we have silk no longer, so now we are making them of nylon, and a superior chute, too."

Collection Planned

"Every meat dealer in your county must arrange to accept the fats brought to the store by housewives. Arrangements are being made for regular collection from the dealers. Arrangements are being made to collect silk articles and tin cans. And do not forget that the ends must be cut from both ends of the cans and the cans flattened before collection. Your chairman tells me that a plan now is in the making for the collection of cans. Start saving them right now and keep on saving them. Every ounce of tin we can obtain is necessary. As a matter of actual fact tin is the number one vital metal today."

"Tin is necessary in bearings of all vehicles of land, sea or air. It is necessary to make new cans in which to ship food to our soldiers in far away places. From tin we are obtaining today one of the greatest drugs of medical history, a drug that is saving lives of Yankee fighters every day and will save thousands more if it is available."

Need Stressed

"Some have complained because collection is slow as regards some vital materials. Well, they certainly didn't expect us to use all that scrap in a day or two, did they? We know where all this metal is and we are collecting it as rapidly as possible. And the speed with which we are using the metal would surprise practically everyone. The unsightly piles of metal you see are nothing more or less than Uncle Sam's ace in the hole. We'll get every ounce of it and then ask you to dig up more. Don't think we are not in need of metal. We are."

"Keep up your scrap efforts. Keep on your toes and urge all others to do the same. Every citizen is an important cog in the machinery Uncle Sam has geared for Victory. If enough of those cogs fall then the entire machine breaks down and the Axis leaders will stand with a foot on our throats. You all have done a grand job so far. Keep it up and maintain full pride in playing important roles in the war effort."

Dan McClain was particularly
